U.S. Faces 20 Years Of Energy Dependence

By DICK BARNES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal energy researchers told Congress today that solar power may be of major potential use in the 21st century but that the nation will still be importing oil until at least 1995.

The Energy Research and Development Administration, in a report titled "Creating Energy Choices for the Future," said a number of energy alternatives must be pursued to allow sufficient margin for inevitable failures.

The report also said throwing all support toward a single target, such as nuclear power or creating synthetic fuel from coal or oil shale, even if successful, would not solve the nation's energy problems.

Dr. Robert C. Seamans Jr., the head of ERDA, told reporters he could place no pricetag on energy development through the year 2000.

While establishing different energy priorities for near-term, mid-term and long-term, the report said five changes in U.S. energy research, development and demonstration must be made quickly:

—Emphasize solving technical problems that now are inhibiting expansion of current energy sources, especially coal plants and light-water nuclear reactors.

—Stress energy conservation, especially in autos, buildings and industrial processes.

—Add solar power to breeder reactors and fusion power in the category of energy from virtually inexhaustible sources.

—Accelerate commercial capability in synthetic fuel production: the extraction of gaseous and liquid fuels from coal and oil shale.

Observing that the United States has already gone through 60-year cycles of shifting primary fuel dependency from wood to coal to oil and gas, the report set these priorities for future use:

—Near-term, present to 1985: Expand present coal, nuclear, gas and oil systems through new sources and better recovery from existing sources.

—Mid-term, 1985 to 2000: Accelerate new means to get synthetic fuels from coal and shale; increase utilization of underused fuel forms such as geothermal energy and solar heating; recover energy from waste heat.

—Long-term, 2000 and beyond: Draw energy from an inexhaustible source such as solar power, fusion or nuclear breeder reactors; develop technologies such as electric vehicles to utilize such energy.

At all of these stages, energy conservation should be pursued, the report said.

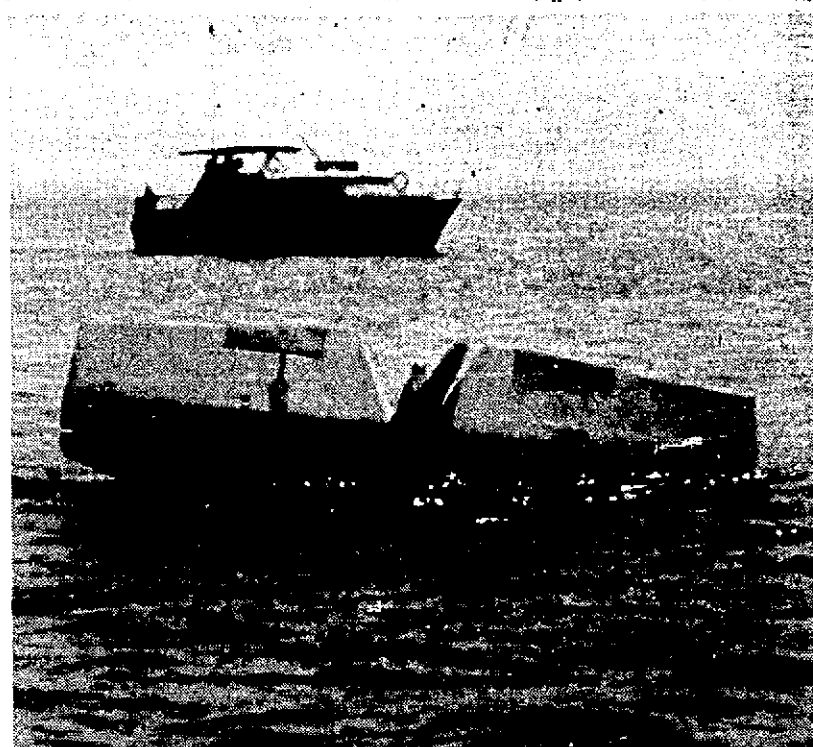

The report said that, if these research and development goals are sufficiently achieved, the nation would enjoy energy independence, maintain a healthy economy, pursue life styles unfettered by energy scarcity, contribute to world stability and protect its environment.

The report, which was requested by Congress, serves only to outline a course of action.

ERDA will be asking Congress for as yet unspecified funds to pursue some of the outlined tasks through its own work. In other cases, the agency would coordinate and encourage industry and university experimentation.

While the energy crisis crept up on the United States over a period of recent years, the Arab oil embargo of 1973-74 triggered most public and congressional TAIL RISES FROM WATER: Tail of World War II-vintage Hellcat airplane juts from Lake Michigan off South Haven following crash yesterday afternoon. Pilot and passenger escaped serious injury and were picked up within minutes by boaters. Van Buren sheriff's officer said plane was flying low when it plunged into water. Cause of crash was not immediately determined.

Ex-WW II Fighter Lands In Big Lake

SOUTH HAVEN — A Kalamazoo man and his stepson escaped serious injury after ditching their airplane in Lake Michigan off South Haven yesterday afternoon.

Hundreds of bathers and fishermen watched the World War II-vintage single engine Hellcat crash into the lake approximately one mile south of the city's beaches and a half-mile offshore.

Dr. Frederick W. Edison, 52, of Kalamazoo, the pilot, suffered a forehead cut as a result of the crash. His passenger, John Stiles, 15, was not injured. They were both taken to South Haven Community hospital for observation and released.

Among the eyewitnesses were Van Buren Sheriff's office officers Lt. Robert Small Sr. and Deputy Joseph Zwawa who were patrolling in the immediate vicinity and arrived on scene within a minute.

"He made a beautiful landing under the circumstances," Small said. "There was no doubt that the pilot was experienced by the way he handled that situation."

Dr. Edison said he has logged more than 5,000 hours as a pilot including time as a marine pilot in World War II. It was his first crash landing although once in the war he parachuted out of a disabled plane into the water.

The accident occurred within half-a-mile of a popular South Haven perch fishing spot. Approximately 75 boats were in the area when the mishap happened.

A private boater whose identity was not known helped the plane's occupants from the water.

"We weren't in the water for a minute when help arrived," Dr. Edison said. He noted that the worst part of the whole ordeal was "the boat ride into shore; we must have hit every other wave."

Witnesses said the airplane was flying low when the accident occurred. Dr. Edison declined to discuss the circumstances that led to the accident although he indicated he had not experienced mechanical difficulties prior to the 2:50 p.m. crash.

Small estimated the plane's altitude at 50 feet prior to the mishap. Normal minimum altitude except when approaching for a landing is 500 feet. The accident is under investigation by the Federal Aeronautics Administration.

Dr. Edison said he had flown from Kalamazoo to Hobart, Ind. earlier in the day and was returning to Kalamazoo.

The 35-foot-long plane sank nose down in 28 feet of water. Authorities were able to attach a buoy to the plane's tail which remained above water.

Boats were kept away from the area by members of the South Haven Coast Guard auxiliary and the Van Buren Sheriff's marine patrol.

The plane was to be recovered by private salvagers from South Haven today.

ADC Eligibility Rules Get Tougher Tuesday

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 11 million welfare recipients are required to furnish their Social Security numbers to state agencies beginning Tuesday in the newest federal crackdown on welfare fraud.

New applicants for Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC), running at better than 90,000 persons a month recently, must provide their Social Security numbers as a condition of eligibility.

Those already on AFDC rolls will have to provide the numbers within the next six months, as states routinely verify their eligibility to continue receiving public assistance.

Welfare recipients who do not have Social Security numbers will be helped by the states to obtain them after evidence of age, identity and citizenship or alien status is furnished.

U.S. Welfare Commissioner Robert B. Carlsen said the requirement will make it more difficult for welfare mothers to apply for public assistance for children who don't exist and assist state agencies in keeping track of the fathers of welfare children.

Another new law going into effect Tuesday requires states to determine the paternity of welfare children, locate the fathers and collect child support payments. States which do not have an adequate parent locator system in operation by 1977 risk the loss of 5 per cent of the federal share of AFDC money.

President Ford has on his desk a congressionally approved measure giving the states another 30 days, to the end of July, to file plans for such parent locator systems. The original deadline was Tuesday.

The law also gives HEW access to once-confidential files of the Internal Revenue Service, the Social Security Administration, the Pentagon and the Veterans Administration to find the last known address and place of employment of deserting welfare fathers.

The government estimates that 1.3 million absent fathers are costing taxpayers $1.3 billion a year for support of their children.

The 25 million Americans receiving free or low-cost Medicaid health care also will be asked to furnish their Social Security numbers but, under a provision of the federal Privacy Act, the numbers can be required only in the handful of states which had such a requirement in effect before Jan. 1, 1975.

AFDC or Medicaid assistance cannot be delayed pending issuance or verification of Social Security numbers, HEW said.

Released Convict Again Tries To Kill Daughters

NEW YORK (AP) — In April 1973, 4-year-old Pamela Winfree and her 2-year-old sister Michelle were thrown through the window of their Brooklyn tenement by their father. They survived and their father, Herman White, went to prison.

On Sunday, White, 30, on weekend furlough from Manhattan's Bayview Correctional Facility, went to the Brooklyn home of his common-law wife. Police said he seized the girls, took them to the roof of an apartment building, and hurled them five stories to the pavement below.

Pamela and Michelle, now 6 and 4, survived the latest assault but were reported in critical condition today at Kings County Hospital. In the incident two years ago, Michelle suffered a broken leg and Pamela was not seriously injured in their three-story falls.

The girls' mother, Pauline Winfree, told police White had visited her earlier and convinced her to let him take the girls shopping. He did so and returned about two hours later. About 8 p.m., White came back while the girls were playing in front of the house. He allegedly grabbed the girls as the mother watched from a window, and announced he was going to throw them off the highest roof he could find.

Police said he then took them to a building four blocks away and threw them over the ledge. White had been at the Bayview facility the past month on a work-release program after completing a year in the state prison at Dannemora.

A spokesman for the State Department of Correctional Services said of White, "In the judgment of the department, he was ready for temporary release."

In a similar incident in Brooklyn, Yolanda Rivera, 26, allegedly threw her 2-year-old son, Richard, out of a third-floor window in a fit of anger late Saturday. The child was reported in poor condition at Wyckoff Heights Hospital with a skull fracture and other injuries.

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

Admiral's Salty Estimate On Uncle Sam's Health

Admiral Elmo Zumwalt, U.S.N. retired, proved a real sleeper last week as the Economic Club's speaker.

In common with most of his audience we felt the advance billing of his talk, "Morality in Government," might be another lecture on the Watergate caper or the CIA's intrusion into private lives.

We based our hunch on Adm. Zumwalt's highly publicized tour of duty as chief of naval operations from 1970 through 1974 and since retirement at age 54 his testing of the waters next year against Virginia's independent Democratic Senator, Harry Byrd, Jr.

The admiral dramatized his tenure as the Navy's boss by de-emphasizing spit and polish and narrowing the traditional military gap between officers and enlisted. Older hands in the officer ranking looked askance at Zumwalt as a time bomb calculated to sink the service beyond recovery.

Byrd's self proclaimed status as an ID in the Old Dominion state which since Eisenhower's first campaign in '52 has been shifting to a Republican stance is notice to his fellow Virginians he is every bit as conservative as his distinguished father who died some years ago.

Consequently Zumwalt's New Look for the Navy and Byrd's political leaning led us to think "Morality in Government" would be a re-affirmation of no more Watergates.

Not so. The admiral emphasized a one-two punch in our national condition which the current news from the Washington whirligig has put on the back burner.

He worries that in its pre-occupation to upgrade detente into a perpetual love match with the Soviet Union that the White House completely misses what the Kremlin's bosses have in mind for detente.

In that process Congress and the Administration are neglecting the safety factor in maintaining our military capability up to snuff.

Zumwalt stated flatly that the Russian fleet has overtaken the U.S. as the world's No. 1 naval power and he doubts our country now possesses a

You Can't Win

Winning isn't everything — the tax people take a big part of it.

Another Example Of Bureaucratic Bungling

What happens when government is operated by bureaucratic bungle is being demonstrated by the rush to retirement before Sept. 1 of an unusually large number of senior military officers. According to the Pentagon at least 215 generals and admirals either have filed for retirement or have indictated they will do so.

That number represents about one-fifth of the top officer corps and includes such important officers as the commandant and assistant commandant of the Marine Corps, the vice chief of naval operations, the Air Force commander in Europe and the chief of the U.S. southern command in the Panama Canal Zone.

Also before the summer is over, some 2,300 colonels and Navy captains are expected to retire — about one-sixth of the officers in these grades.

What has happened to the officer corps to force such a wholesale retirement? Discouragement over the Indochina outcome? Disgruntlement within the ranks? Forced retirement because of reduced manpower ranks?

Perhaps all these reasons play a part, but the overriding one given by the officers is the quirk in the retirement act which will penalize them if they do not retire by Sept. 1. Nor is the quirk a small one.

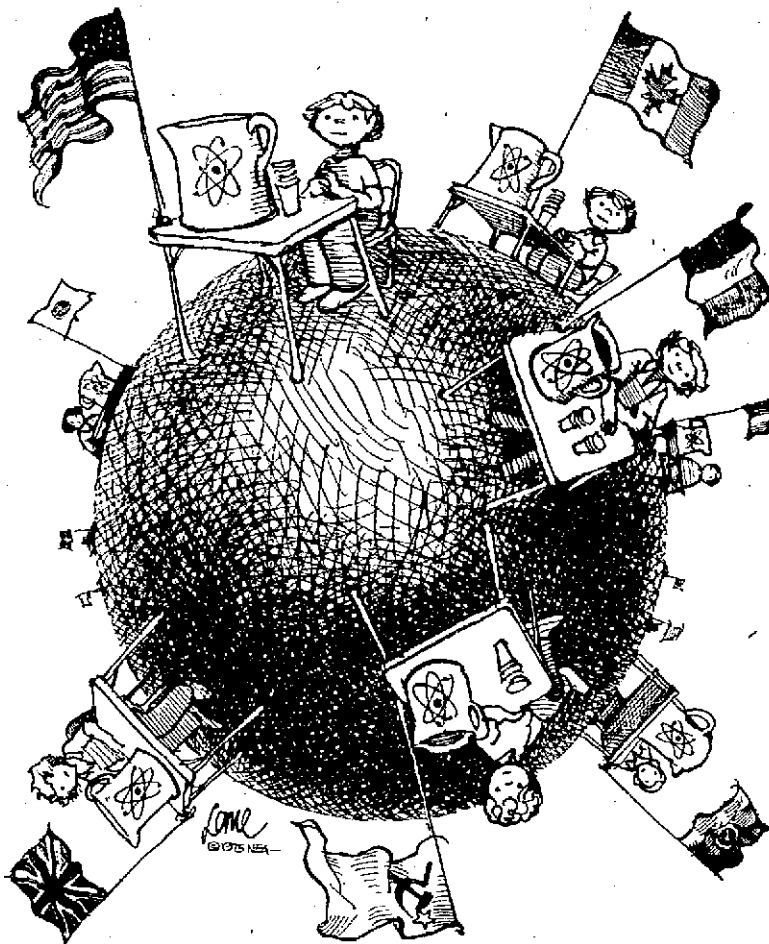

Generals and admirals stand to lose up to $333 a month for the rest of their lives if they do not retire now. Colonels and Navy captains could lose as much as $76 a month in retirement pay if they elect to remain in uniform.

That's a great way to promote the concept of a volunteer military service.

READER SAYS EDITORIAL 'UNFAIR'

Editor,

Regarding your editorial of June 25, pertaining to the proposed St. Joseph penetrator, I would like to make a few comments.

I do not agree with your position that the main opposition comes from the St. Joseph Township board. I believe that the citizens of St. Joseph feel that they should have some rights as to what happens to our city. Is a referendum so outrageous? I'll agree that the area from Napier avenue south to I-94 is not very attractive, but that is because of poor planning. I also agree that many — maybe most — people would not object to the penetrator coming as far as Hilltop road.

You are in the unique position of being able to make derogatory remarks about any proposal or those who oppose it or support it, as long as it is done on the editorial page. Your statement that the concrete opposition unlimited group is trying to scare St. Joseph residents is ridiculous. Even more ridiculous is your statement that if we don't use the money, someone else will so we should use it ourselves. Perhaps if we don't use it, nobody else will either and it just might go back into the state treasury and give everyone a little tax relief.

We are not a metropolis which needs four lane highways going in every direction. We are a beautiful small city, well run by our city commission, well protected by our police, well educated by our schools and appreciated by our residents. Let's have a newspaper which does not try to turn us against each other by its unfair editorials.

EXPANDED EXPORTS TO USSR QUESTIONED

Editor,

Is the United States giving too much of our know-how and technology to the Russians? Americans in rising numbers are growing very apprehensive over the expanding export of United States advanced technology and industrial know-how to the Soviet Union. The critics are charging this aspect of detente is giving the Russians significant military and economic gains, while the United States is getting very little — if anything, in return.

Congress and the nation's feeling is widespread that America is giving away the main advantage it still has left over the Communist superpower — technological superiority — and is financing this give-away with loans underwritten by United States taxpayers. The American help in building Soviet industry in such huge enterprises as the Kama River truck manufacturing project is easing internal pressures on the Kremlin while laying the ground-work for competition that in the long run could cost American jobs.

The Export-Import Bank which is funded by the United States treasury, has granted since early 1973 loans totaling about $489 million to help finance 15 major contracts between American firms and the Soviet Union. The charge is made that much of the American scientific and technical output to which the Russians are gaining access has military applications. One allegation due to be sifted by the senate group is that Soviet scientists, aircraft designers, and computer experts are being given access to American technological secrets through guided tours and seminars in key industrial plants across United Benton Harbor is to have a Young Men's Christian association building next year that will cost $300,000, including the site. This amount was decided upon at a meeting of business men at Hotel Vincent yesterday. Experts from national headquarters recently made a survey of the field and reported that such a sum was necessary if the building and equipment were to meet the needs of Benton Harbor and St. Joseph. It was the unanimous feeling of the business men, representing both cities, that this goal could be reached. It was agreed that this was quite the biggest challenge ever put up to the community but that the people would meet it.

out an entire block of buildings occurred in St. Joseph at eleven o'clock this morning and destroyed two barns and several smaller sheds. The blaze was first discovered in the barn of B.O. Greening at 310 Church street and by the time an alarm was turned in the building was a mass of flames. Before the hose company arrived the flames had leaped to the big barn of Samuel Danforth adjoining. P.S. Reader's carriage house on the opposite alley was also ablaze and several little sheds were on fire. The Danforth barn was practically destroyed before the fire was under control, but by hard work of the firemen the other buildings and houses were saved.

The President As A Candidate

WASHINGTON — Despite all his suspense-creating efforts, Gerald Ford was actually the first of all current candidates to put his helmet in the 1976 presidential ring.

Though he originally said he would not seek the office on his own, he changed his mind three days after assuming power last August. He has apparently had third thoughts since then, in part because of the health of his wife, in part because of the wisdom of it all. But those close to him insist he has in effect been campaigning now for almost a year.

"And what you've seen," says a Ford ally in the House, "is what you will see. I don't think the President is suddenly going to transform, presto, into a hard-charging, finger-pointing presidential aspirant. I think he'll be an enthusiastic candidate, but from his own mold. I think that he'll want to indicate to the voters that when he kisses a baby he really wants to kiss the baby."

No doubt credibility will be the major pursuit of the Ford campaign, for after 11 months in office it has become the President's strongest suit. He can't very well solicit votes on his record of legislative genius or intellectual creativity. As a Republican committee officer says, "too many people will remember the oil tariff and Whip Inflation Now." Instead the task will be to convince people that whatever he does if elected will be done for them.

Will it work? Many think not. Clare Booth Luce, for one, believes Ford as a person is a dream: "Open, honest, commonsensical, unapologetically patriotic, intellectually unpretentious." But can he be elected? Not a chance, says she.

Ford is expected to have difficulties relating to working class people of whatever political persuasion. His staff has repeatedly advised him that, at a time when polls say one of every three American families has an immediate member or close relative out of work, the President has not conveyed an adequate image of sympathy. In vetoing legislation designed to help the unemployed, and in failing to identify even rhetorically with the jobless, he may have isolated himself from what could be the heart of his constituency. "What I'd like him to do," says an aide, "is go out now and prowl the unemployment lines, hug up the people who are broke. That's where it's at today, the votes I mean."

For his part, the President is said to believe the votes are not yet lined up, that opinions will not harden until late summer or thereafter of next year. Thus he would rather be honest with himself and the public now against the hope his steady optimism will pay off with better times tomorrow. He is gambling, then, that "do something" is merely a temporary emotional response and that in fact most people realize that more and more government action hardly ever results in more and more public prosperity.

In the end he may be right, of course, but few are guessing here that Ford will ever be hailed by voters for his wit. Instead, his future clearly seems tied in the main to his character. And his largest opportunity lies in convincing the electorate that the views government as existing to serve the people, not the other way around.

Albert's Hold On Job Slipping

WASHINGTON — House Speaker Carl Albert has hinted to associates that he may retire at the end of this term, opening the way for younger and more forceful Democratic majority leadership in 1977.

The 67-year-old Speaker has repeatedly said that he will step down in three years and he has not officially speeded up that timetable. But he is increasingly under pressure to get tough or get out, and tough is not his style.

Many Congressional colleagues have the impression that Albert is resentful of the new independence of members and at a loss as to how to regain control. They also feel that he has lost his stomach for political combat and is seriously considering bowing out next year while his dignity is reasonably intact.

The erosion of Albert's leadership since the Democratic Caucus reforms of six months ago has been dramatic. He has never been regarded as a dictatorial powerhouse; but in the past he was tolerated as a respectable compromise. Now he is frequently the object of ridicule in private political conversations. His social drinking habits are a common topic of discussion. Sometimes he gives the impression of being unaware of current House developments.

The Democratic Caucus provided Albert with a new tool for manipulating members in a revised Rules Committee structure, but Congressmen complain he has failed to use it. He has absorbed much of the blame for the Democratic failure to override President Ford's recent vetoes, the embarrassing debacle over the House CIA investigation committee, and the rejection of the Ways and Means Committee proposal for a gas tax increase.

The freshman revolt against him barely progressed beyond the talking stage, but it reflected widespread frustration at the leadership's lack of urgency and motion. When Congress opened, Albert outlined ambitious plans for meeting the country's economic problems in a nationwide radio address. But his vision has turned out to be merely rhetoric.

Albert circulated a letter among his colleagues recently that in effect acknowledged the current Congress was stymied by the President and suggested the Democrats concentrate upon writing the party's platform for the 1976 convention instead. This was greeted with scorn by most members, who think the way to be reelected is to write legislation instead of platforms.

Some of those Congressmen who feel Albert may step down next year may be indulging in wishful thinking, for that is what his critics would very much like to have him do. But there appears to be little reason beyond sheer stubbornness and a devotion to the perquisites of power for him to insist upon what would be a handicapped lame-duck term, in the face of mounting rebellion. At the end of this term, he will have served 28 years in the House and his pension rights will be substantial.

If Albert does decide to bow out gracefully, the next problem becomes the riddle of his successor. Traditionally, the second-ranking Majority Leader has moved up the ladder more or less automatically. But the number-two man, 62-year-old Tip O'Neill, belongs to the old-fashioned backroom school of politics that many of the newer members feel is inadequate for modern pressures, and he does not project the vigorous image they are seeking. A possible challenger is Caucus chairman Phillip Burton, 47, who is both aggressive and liberal but sometimes too abrasive for his colleagues.

A newly-elected Speaker in 1977 would coincide with a newly-elected President of the White House, who might possibly be a Democrat. And that is an exciting prospect — or a dangerous one, depending upon your viewpoint.

Five Twin City Crashes Hurt 8

Eight people were injured in five traffic accidents reported to Twin City area police over the weekend.

Benton township police investigated three accidents on Saturday within less than two hours.

Drivers of two cars involved in a three-car accident at Napier and Colfax avenues, Fairplain were treated at Memorial hospital. They were identified as Robert Bain, 17, of 1212 Mohawk lane, St. Joseph, and Elizabeth Hahn, 57, of 505 Eloise drive, Fairplain. The other driver, Gloria R. James, 31, of 1028 Colfax, Fairplain, was unhurt.

Police said Bain was issued a ticket for disregarding a traffic signal in the 6:48 p.m. accident.

The driver of one auto and a passenger in another were treated at Memorial hospital for injuries received in an accident on Territorial road at North Pine road. They were identified as Lucille E. Muse, 58, of 2386 Kurt road, Benton township, the driver, and L.O. Lawrence, 34, of 1182 Highland avenue, Benton township, a passenger in the car driven by Hugh T. Holder, 35, 1850 Highland.

Police issued a citation for careless driving to Holder in the 5:12 p.m. accident.

Township police said David L. Jackson, 54, LaGrange, Ill., was injured, but sought his own treatment about 5:15 p.m. when a car he was driving and another collided on M-139 at Pipestone road. The other driver, James E. Denton, 38, of 3502 Niles road, St. Joseph, was unhurt. Jackson was ticketed for failure to stop in an assured, clear distance, police indicated.

Benton Harbor police reported an injury accident at 10:40 p.m. Saturday, on Paw Paw avenue at Territorial road.

Treated at Mercy hospital was a driver, L.C. Carrouthers Jr., 26, of 1011 Columbus avenue, Benton Harbor. Reported unhurt was the other driver, Andy Wilson, Jr., 46, of 435 Packard street. Wilson was ticketed for failure to yield the right of way.

Two people were injured but not hospitalized, according to St. Joseph police after an accident Saturday on North Wayne street at the Main street bridge about 7:20 p.m. Police said a car driven by Pamela J. Houck, 19, of 2453 Arrow lane, Stevensville, collided with another car as it was waiting for the bridge to close. She was not hurt. Injured was the driver of the other car, Vernon G. Fester, 32, Dowagiac, and a passenger in the Houck auto, Cherie Houck, 16, 5589 Hiawatha lane, Stevensville. Pamela Houck was issued a ticket for failure to stop in an assured, clear distance, police said.

DOUBLE GRADS: Edmund D. Schmeichel and wife, Sheryl, received degrees from Ferris State college. Schmeichel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Schmeichel, 3437 South Cleveland avenue, St. Joseph, received a B.S. degree in trade-technical education with "high distinction" and has joined the Gerald A. Fisher Co., South Bend. Mrs. Schmeichel received associate degree in applied science and medical assisting. A native of New York state, she also is a graduate of State University of New York at Oneonta. The couple lives at 1776 Santa Maria, Stevensville.

BH Officer Says Public Gambling, Drinking On Rise

Gambling and drinking on public streets in Benton Harbor are increasing and will soon "out of proportion," unless more police patrols and arrests can be made, Patrolman Phil Harris warned in a report Sunday.

Harris said gambling and drinking usually consist of large crowds, including juveniles, and the people scatter when a patrol car appears.

Usually left behind are empty beer cans and wine bottles, Harris said.

One marked patrol car became a target for unidentified people in a crowd, who threw cans and bottles at the car about 1 a.m. Sunday, at Territorial road and Fifth street, Harris said. The car was reported undamaged and there were no injuries.

Harris said the crowd scattered, but later regrouped near Second street and Highland avenue. In each location dice games were in process, Harris said.

Harris said the problem appears most pronounced on Wednesday and Saturday nights.

Harris also recommended that a fire inspection be made of the Holiday Inn, record spin center, in the Harbor hotel on Fifth street. Harris said there were an estimated 200 people inside Saturday night with no space to move around and no exit lights visible.

Fire Chief Harold Gaddie said the place passed inspection before it opened, but another inspection would be made today.

U.S. Major Hurt In Korean Fight

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP) — A U.S. Army major was knocked out today in a brawl with a group of North Korean guards outside the armistice commission conference room at this truce village.

Maj. William D. Henderson, executive officer of the U.S. Army support group in the joint security area, was rescued by United Nations Command personnel and flown by helicopter to a U.S. Army hospital near Seoul for observation and treatment.

Jamaicans To Perform Tomorrow

Fire Bombs

PIEDMONT, Calif. (AP) — Fire bombs exploded in the backyards of two luxurious homes here and a terrorist group claimed it set them off in support of embattled Indians at the Pine Ridge, S.D., reservation.

No one was injured and damage was estimated at $8,000 in the fiery blasts just moments apart early Sunday morning on neighboring homes in this exclusive residential area in the Oakland hills.

domly selected by Nielsen Television Research to keep a diary of their television viewing as part of a sampling of what people are watching nationwide.

Stuber is an insurance agent for All-State Insurance with an office at 2724 Niles avenue, St. Joseph.

Nielsen, headquartered in Dunedin, Fla., takes a sampling of the nation's viewing habits and reports the results to the television industry which determines the fate of the programs.

The Stubers were instructed to keep a diary of the time and channel of the programs they watch and the number and ages of the people watching.

Stuber said the family began keeping the survey Tuesday and has already become more aware of their viewing habits. "We were surprised that we watched a lot less television than we thought we did," Mrs. Stuber said.

The Stubers are also given an opportunity by the pollsters to give their comments on general television programming. "I think one of the comments, as many people agree, will have to be that there is too much violence on television," Mrs. Stuber said. The Stuber sons, Mark, 14, and Mike, 10, both shook their heads in disagreement.

There isn't much diversity among the Stuber family's favorite programs. Stuber said he likes sports events, particularly baseball. Mrs. Stuber said she favors the game shows, especially "Hollywood Squares" and "Celebrity Sweepstakes." The two boys like both the sports events and game shows and the Saturday morning cartoons.

The Stubers have three television sets and must keep a diary of each one. For their cooperation, Nielsen sent them 50 cents as a "token of appreciation."

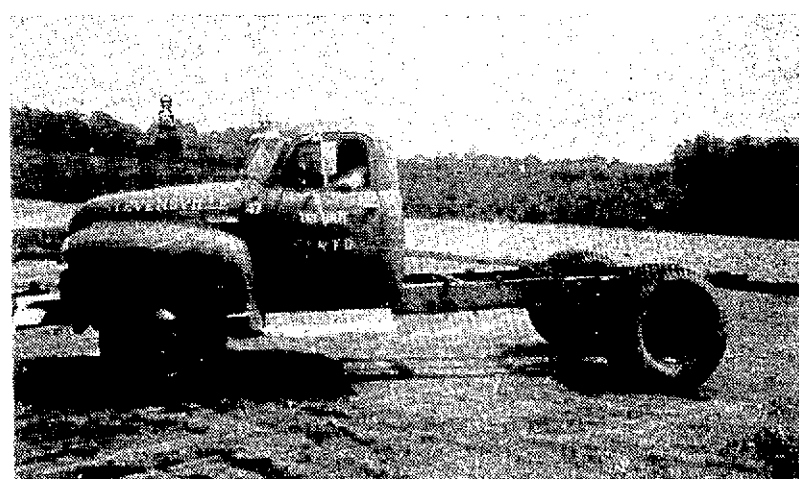

Stuber said he did not plan to fix the diary in favor of programs he liked. "We plan to just keep our normal viewing pattern," he said. Stuber said a friend suggested that he have all three television sets on during golf matches to insure continual coverage of the sports event.

Hoosier's Boat Runs Aground

A South Bend, Ind., boater, John Steinberg, was towed to the St. Joseph Coast Guard station late last night after his boat hit a submerged object near the southeast end of Radio island on the Morrison channel.

The rudder and propeller of Steinberg's 32-foot boat were ripped off and the boat then ran aground. Although the accident occurred in the area where a railroad bridge was taken out about three months ago, a Coast Guard spokesman said he did not believe it was caused by submerged pilings. There were no injuries.

Coast guardsmen answered a total of 15 assistance calls over the weekend, all routine, and the spokesman said there were an estimated 2,500 boats on the lake in the St. Joseph area, about the same number or more than a long holiday weekend.

Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Time To Change Menu?

Dear Ann Landers: I read a news story recently worth sharing. An elementary school principal became distressed watching pupils toss most of their lunches into garbage cans. To dramatize the waste, this principal gathered the pupils and teachers together and dumped the contents of the nearest trash can onto a table. Among other items, out rolled large, unpeeled oranges, shiny red apples with not a bite missing, and an assortment of neatly-wrapped sandwiches. A sixth-grader prepared the official inventory — 41 sandwiches, two cartons of milk, two whole pieces of chicken, three bags of potato chips, 19 apples, 13 oranges, one piece of cake, one untouched carton of chocolate pudding, four whole carrots, two small boxes of raisins, 19 pieces of candy and 14 cookies. After the demonstration, the principal sent a letter to the parents of his 430 pupils, itemizing what had been found in the trash can. Teachers launched lessons on food waste and nutrition. The children were impressed with the experiment and learned from it. Please print this, Ann. Perhaps when school opens in the fall, other teachers might want to try this experiment. — California Reader

Dear Reader: What a splendid idea! I heartily recommend it — not only for schools, but also for housewives. If they'd observe the eating habits of their families and check on what is thrown out daily, perhaps they would change their menus.

Pet Pollution

Dear Ann Landers: I've seen many letters in your column defending the rights of smokers vs. non-smokers. I'm a smoker who makes every attempt to keep from bothering others and now I wish THEY would respect MY right not to be bothered by their dogs. Why is it that normally nice people seem to think their pets belong everywhere? Why haven't you blasted those bores who insist on taking their dogs into beauty shops, supermarkets, restaurants, office buildings and public conveyances? Have you ever had to sit near and smell a wet, dirty mongrel on a train or a bus? As a former member of the Harvard University student community, I was appalled at the number of dogs (and cats) allowed to roam the cafeterias! I have also found that people who take their dogs everywhere fail to give them proper grooming or training. The only exception is seeing-eye dogs — they are invariably beautifully-groomed and well-mannered. Please address yourself to this problem, Ann. I have — Had it. Dear Had: According to the Chicago Public Health Dept., the state regulations say no pets are allowed where food is prepared, processed or stored. However, the managers of supermarkets and the proprietors of grocery stores are not obligated to post signs. A Chicago Transit Authority spokesman said dogs are allowed on buses in our city if they are muzzled and on leashes. Lap dogs must be muzzled and held on laps. The Greyhound Bus people said, "No dogs allowed except those leading the blind." If you are bothered by dogs in places where the law says they shouldn't be, complain to the manager. If he fails to cooperate, report him to the District Attorney. Don't flunk your chemistry test. Love is more than one set of glands calling to another. If you have trouble making a distinction you need Ann's booklet, "Love or Sex and How To Tell the Difference." Send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request and 50 cents in coin to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Dr. Lester Coleman

Depression is cropping up more and more as a symptom in the lives of patients.

It probably is one of the most common of all symptoms brought to the attention of the American physician. Strangely, it presents itself in a wide variety of vague, generalized, nonspecific pains and aches, along with an overwhelming sense of fatigue.

Because it wears many-sided masks, a sense of depression may be overlooked and considered last in trying to arrive at an explanation for the physical and emotional behavior of patients.

Unfortunately, there are no chemical or scientific methods by which the degree of the depression may be measured. The result is that mild depression unsuspectingly may be responsible for symptoms that both the patient and the doctor find difficult to pinpoint.

A sense of depression may manifest itself with gastrointestinal symptoms, with urinary symptoms, with skin and allergic responses.

A "dragging" sensation, with pains referred to the lower back, pins-and-needles sensation in the arms and legs, grinding of the teeth (bruxism) and even ulcer pains can all be attributed to mild or severe depression.

A vague sense of faintness, lightheadedness and even dizziness may reflect the depression that lies in the hidden recesses of the patient's psyche.

Depression is not a condition that one should be ashamed of. In this complex, confused world of ours, with the problems of raising children and carrying on a responsible family and community relationship, it is not surprising that such evidence of depression exists.

Many physicians who rule out a physical basis for a patient's complaints will present to them the idea that psychological support and study may be necessary.

There were a time when patients would react in anger to the mere suggestion that they needed any such psychological consultation. Today, however, mature, intelligent people do not feel stigmatized because they cannot temporarily cope with all of the burdens that exist in their lives. "Talking out" intimate problems very often clarifies the major problem and allows the person to attack it directly. This can be done only with the help of a psychiatrist or psychologist specially trained to delve into one's past experiences and unravel some of its mysteries. The last 10 years have broadened the horizons of treatment for depression. An excellent group of drugs can now lift the veil of depression once the basic causes that produce it have been uncovered.

DR. LESTER COLEMAN has prepared a special booklet entitled "Alcoholism — A Family Disease." It probes this grave problem and offers hopeful advice. For your copy, send 25 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lester L. Coleman, M.D. (Alcoholism booklet), P.O. Box, 5178, Grand Central Station, New York City 10017. Please mention the booklet by title.

Erma Bombeck That's Beautiful

The inspiring words of famous Americans have often brought goose bumps to my skin. Like Barbara Fritchie's "Shoot, if you must, this old gray head, But spare your country's flag," does it for me. So does Robert Kennedy's "Some men see things as they are and say why. I dream things that never were and say why not?" And of course, the dramatic, "The Eagle has landed" brings a tear. But nothing has stirred me more than a quotation attributed to the late Eleanor Roosevelt. When she was asked if housekeeping bothered her she replied, "I rarely devote more than 15 minutes a day to it."

Good Lord, that's beautiful. All my life I have waited for a President to say, "All I am or ever hope to be I owe to my mother's sparkling toilet bowl."

Or a woman accepting the Nobel Prize for literature saying, "I must share this with my mother whose devotion to dust inspire me."

But it has never happened. I personally find 15 minutes a day doing housework excessive, but it's the idea that counts.

When I was first married I broke my bones cleaning that apartment. Then one day, I was interrupted. "Where are you going?" asked my husband.

"I'm going to have a baby. I'll only be a minute or two."

That was 22 years ago and I never got back to housework as a formal religion. I spread the word, "WANTED, INTERRUPTIONS BY SUBURBAN HOUSEWIFE. NO OFFER IS TOO RIDICULOUS FOR CONSIDERATION. CALL ERMA, 888-8900. OUT OF STATE CALL OPERATOR 5."

And the interruptions came in. I subbed on a jousting team. Learned how to braid bread. Had another baby. Audited a Weight Watchers class. Took Hebrew Flower Arranging. Dyed my hair orange. Had another baby. Made a musical out of an encounter group. Raised hamsters in my home for a new coat. And learned how to parallel park a golf cart.

I don't know if I have the right attitude or not. Will my kids remember that I taught them how to ride a two-wheel bike or that the garage was condemned? Will they remember that I sat with them when they had measles and watched Gilligan's Island reruns or that my kitchen buckled under too much wax? I wish I knew. All I can say is, "Eleanor, if you know something I don't know give me a sign."

Decorating Trends

BY MIKE IANNELLI

DEFINING SPACE with furniture groupings is one of the oldest and most basic principles of home decorating. But it is one that keeps taking on new applications as our way of life changes.

The coming of the television age, for instance, has revolutionized furniture selection and placement wherever the TV set is placed, whether in the family room, den or living area. Either the set must be mobile, the furniture movable, or comfortable seating has to be placed where the screen can be viewed without strain.

Another change has been the disappearance of the formal dining room. Here furniture groupings can create the effect of a formal dining area without walls. Conversation area furnishings can "turn their back" to the dining area, helping to define it. Screens, beads or free standing dividers can separate areas handsomely without stealing space.

In large rooms furniture groups are especially effective. Creating an entertainment area around the fireplace, a reading corner with chairs and bookcases, a dining or television area, a game area with table and chairs. Such groups break up the space and make it more people- and beautifully functional.

Comfortable chairs are an important part of any decorative grouping. And they're an important part of any furniture display, too. You'll find chairs galore in our selection, in colors and sizes, fabrics and finishes to complement your taste and present decor. Come in and browse.

Oswald: "Good bidders should overbid when they are trying to score a game or slam. Thus, when your partner bids to within one trick of game you should go on to game with any excuse at all."

Jim: "Looking at it another way, two notrump may be the right stopping place, but it is never a good one. With good breaks you will make three; with bad breaks you may go down at two."

Oswald: "The same thing applies to contracts of three of a major suit or four of a minor. You want to continue on with any excuse at all."

Jim: "South followed this principle when he went to three notrump. His reason was that his ten-nine of hearts might just help build up his partner's heart suit."

Oswald: "Three notrump isn't a really sound contract, but after the spade lead South could count on five tricks outside the heart suit."

Jim: "It turned out that his ten-nine of hearts were there to give him four heart tricks in spite of the 4-2 break. The slight pushing bid paid off well."

Early Mastectomy Patient Spreads Message Of Hope

By JULIE LEHR
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — When Terese Lasser entered the hospital 22 years ago for surgery to remove a lump in her breast, she told her husband she would be playing a golf tournament.

"He had just had a heart attack, and I didn't want to alarm him," she explained. "Besides, I thought it was a simple operation for removal of a lump. I understood it would take a couple of hours, and then I could leave."

Mrs. Lasser told her story to an audience at Lansing's Civic Center recently.

When she awakened, she continued, she saw her husband sitting near her bed, his chin resting on his clasped hands. She felt a numbness in her hand and arm and only then learned of her mastectomy — breast removal.

On that day — with a long and rocky road to recovery ahead of her — Terese Lasser needed help.

Now, through Reach To Recovery, a program she founded for mastectomies (women or men who have a breast removed), she is providing the kind of help she needed that day when she hovered on the edge of despair.

"Twenty-two years ago, one didn't talk about breast surgery. Twenty-two years ago, I asked my doctor for help. He said to ask the nurse. But she didn't know that much," Mrs. Lasser recalled.

So, she had to search for answers for herself.

She recounted her first humiliating experience when seeking a fitting for a breast form.

"I went to see a very large, well-known department store," she said. "Although it may be hard to believe, I am basically a shy person, and it was torture for me to go through with the fitting."

"Then a young girl came in — a clerk. She looked at me and with a horrified expression said, 'I don't take care of people like you.'"

Mrs. Lasser endured the same reaction from an older saleswoman.

"I just sat there, dying emotionally," she said.

It was at the end of her first year after surgery that Reach To Recovery was formed.

Her husband, the late J.K. Lasser, author of the famed tax guide, was in publishing and numbered many friends in the field.

Stories about Mrs. Lasser began appearing in syndicated columns. Response to her work was immediate and overwhelming.

"I had been seeing my doctor's patients and some of the other doctors' patients, too," she recalled. "The doctors mostly thought I was a hopeless do-gooder, but they did notice that their patients' attitudes toward going back to their former lifestyles was better."

Mrs. Lasser travels to cities all over the country and to countries all over the world to spread her message. It is one of hope.

Reach To Recovery will only go where invited. If a doctor doesn't want his patient to be visited, there will be no visit by Mrs. Lasser or one of her group of volunteers.

Volunteers in the program are trained to deal with a woman's psychological, physical and cosmetic problems, in that order.

"Once you know you're alive, the most difficult obstacle is a man."

"Will I still be accepted?" "Will he still love me?" are questions that every woman asks herself," said Mrs. Lasser.

"If the wife is smart, she will ask her husband to participate in the recovery," she declared.

The program also employs men volunteers, husbands of women who have had mastectomies, to talk with the husband of a new patient "and suggest behavioral patterns to make the first night at home and the first week easier."

Reach To Recovery also provides brochures for the daughter and son of a mastectomized, but none of these are distributed without the consent of the patient.

Much of this is the result of Terese Lasser's dedicated efforts over the years.

She is paid no salary. However, the American Cancer Society underwrites all her travel expenses as she takes her gospel from town to town. She also will go anywhere to investigate anything that may be of aid to people who have had this operation.

"They said I was crazy 22 years ago," she laughs. "Now Reach To Recovery occupies eight days a week for me."

Good News For U.S. Economy Trade Balance

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — For a very long time the only economic news we heard was bad—goals unmet, expectations unrealized, events failing to live up to forecasts. Americans became accustomed to disappointments.

Now the news is changing, and no one item represents a more interesting departure from the past mold than the latest figures for U.S. trade activity. A huge surplus, $1.05 billion, was reported for May.

Only a few months ago private and government trade officials were expecting a trade deficit, or that Americans would buy more abroad than foreigners spent here.

A large or continued outflow of this sort is of great significance. In effect, when a country regularly spends more than it sells it weakens its entire system and sets up problems for the future. It lets its energy drain away.

It is little different from the typical householder's situation. If he runs a deficit for a year or two, living off credit, he might not get into trouble. There's no necessity to balance your books by the year.

If, however, he continues to live beyond his means, buying more than he produces in the way of a paycheck, he's headed for trouble. Eventually he'll have to pay those bills or buy less.

When a nation falls into bad habits of this sort an international red light goes on in the currency markets. The country is indicating weakness, and its currency becomes less desirable to hold. It drops in price.

If the situation isn't corrected the nation might be forced to devalue its money, or officially recognize the judgement of its trading partners who already were wary of doing further business on a credit basis.

When the May trade figures were announced the trading world was encouraged, and the price of the dollar was bid up in foreign markets to its highest in several weeks.

In Amsterdam it could be turned in for 2,433 guilders, highest in seven weeks. In Frankfurt it was valued at 2.35 marks, a six-week high. In Paris it rose to 4.0275 francs, highest in a month.

Beirut Fighting Continues

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Street fighting continued without letup through the night in Beirut, raising the toll to 120 dead and 488 wounded since last Tuesday.

American and European residents were reported making evacuation plans after two Arab countries, Kuwait and Bahrain, advised their citizens to leave.

However, there was no word of evacuation plans from the U.S. Embassy or other Western diplomatic missions.

Palestine guerrillas, other Moslem leftists and right-wing

Christian militiamen turned residential areas into a holocaust of exploding mortar shells, machine-gun bullets, rocket grenades and dynamite blasts.

Bombs started fires that gutted commercial buildings in the central business district and wealthier residential neighborhoods in downtown Beirut and along the coast. All banks and trading firms were closed in the Middle East's biggest financial and commercial center.

Most city streets were blocked by armed gangs from one faction or another. Army troops guarded key government buildings, but there was no indication that they had intervened in the fighting yet. Previously only the police and paramilitary security forces actively tried to enforce a ceasefire, and they were hardpressed just defending themselves.

Many Lebanese fled from the poorer Arab quarters in the eastern suburbs, the main combat zones.

Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam arrived for another attempt at peacemaking.

Rockets, mortars and automatic weapons could be heard throughout the city Sunday. Heeding radio warnings, most residents stayed indoors, leaving the streets to the battling leftist Moslem and conservative Christian gunmen and the security forces trying vainly to check them.

Masked gunmen blocked all roads into the city and patrolled the streets, stopping cars and the few pedestrians who ventured out to check identity papers.

The harbor was paralyzed, and more than 120 ships were waiting to unload. The airport was open, but transportation into the city was perilous.

Premier-designate Rashid Karami met with President Suleiman Franjeh on Sunday and pledged to form a cabinet today to end the violence. Labor unions called a nationwide one-day strike in support of Karami.

Rockets slammed into 20 buildings in the port district. Mortars aimed at a headquarters of the Christian Phalange party hit an Armenian school run by nuns. Another mortar barrage devastated the

First Storm Churns In Atlantic

MIAMI (AP) — The 1975 Atlantic hurricane season's first tropical storm was drifting slowly through the open seas today but its 55-mile-per-hour winds were not threatening land masses, according to the National Hurricane Center.

The storm, dubbed Amy, formed off the coast of North Carolina on Saturday. Although it moved farther out to sea, small craft warnings were posted for the North Carolina and Virginia coasts when the storm whipped up 15-foot waves.

At 10:30 p.m. EDT Sunday, Amy's gale winds extended 125 miles to the north and east and 50 miles to the southwest. The center of the storm was about 250 miles east of Cape Hatteras and was moving slowly to the northeast.

Officials said Amy was expected to continue on a northeasterly path, missing Bermuda.

PROTEST HELMET LAW
MADISON, Wis. (AP) — About 2,500 bare-headed motorcyclists rallied at the state Capitol to protest a law which requires them to wear safety helmets.

friends and his mother, Lillian Antoszczyk of Detroit.

University of Michigan pathologist Dr. Paul Gikas said he is examining medical research on Indian mystics' claims into Antoszczyk's death.

Gikas says Antoszczyk may have been in such a deep trance as he meditated that he slowed down his heart, so his brain couldn't get sufficient blood and he died.

"The Indian scientists I have consulted tell me that this form of meditation can be very dangerous if the person does not know what he is doing," Gikas said.

Aceka, an astrologer who was a friend of Antoszczyk's, said, "There's really no explanation except that he decided not to return to his body."

Aceka said Antoszczyk's astrological chart was "heavy with death" for the first weekend in June.

On June 1, Antoszczyk went into his room, telling friends not to disturb him. A few days before, he told Aceka that he hoped to "astroproject" over the weekend.

Astroprojection is a deep meditative state where designed to allow a person to enter his own unconscious. Proponents believe the soul is then separated from the body, connected only by a symbolic "silver cord."

Books on astroprojection say that if the cord breaks, the person's body will die.

Antoszczyk's body was found by his roommate, Neil Miller, on June 3. Miller said Antoszczyk was smiling.

Medical examiner Dr. Donald Riker, who examined the body, estimated Antoszczyk had been dead for at least two days.

University Hospital doctors who performed the autopsy on Antoszczyk said they could find "no good anatomic cause of death." Starvation was not possible because there was partially digested food in Antoszczyk's stomach. The doctors found the YM-YWCA yoga teacher's body organs in good condition.

Final toxicological studies are being done at a Lansing laboratory. While doctors wait for the results, they are trying to find out more about meditation states.

"There have been electrocardiographic studies done on Indian yogis when they were in a transcendental states which are very interesting," Gikas said. Some meditators can reportedly speed and slow their heart rates. But no deaths have been recorded among meditating yogis, the doctor said.

Gikas said he will interview more of Antoszczyk's friends about his lifestyle for other clues to the mysterious death.

Hearing Scheduled In Hoosier Slaying

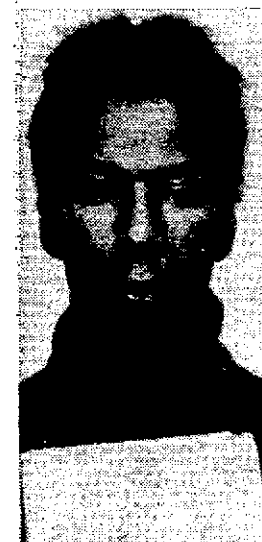

DETROIT (AP) — A hearing before a U.S. magistrate was to be held today for Rickey Lee Vaughn, 29, who was sought for eight months in connection with the slaying of an Indianapolis police officer.

FBI agents in Detroit announced the arrest of Vaughn on Saturday.

Neil Welch, special agent in charge of the FBI's Michigan office, said Vaughn was wanted on a federal warrant charging him with fleeing Indiana to avoid prosecution on a murder charge.

Vaughn, an unemployed native of Detroit, is charged with the slaying last Oct. 22 of Robert Edward Schachte, who reportedly was shot and killed during a routine traffic stop of Vaughn's vehicle.

LUCKY LITTLE PERSON: Actor Billy Bartly (left), playing his second dramatic role after more than 100 movies, portrays Ludwig, diminutive companion of Rod Steiger (right) in the film "W.C. Fields and Me." Bartly is 3 feet 9, and a founder of the Little People of America, Inc. He considers himself lucky. With the turn towards better film roles, he's sure of it. (AP Wirephoto)

'Little Person' Billy Bartly Riding Tall In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Even though he is 3-feet-9, Billy Bartly has always considered himself a lucky man. Now he is certain of it.

After 47 years in films, he has finally played two dramatic roles, one after the other.

The first was "Day of the Locust," John Schlesinger's bitter view of lowlife in 1930s Hollywood. This reviewer hated the picture but loved Billy Bartly (and Burgess Meredith).

Now Bartly has completed his role as Ludwig, diminutive companion of Red Steiger in "W.C. Fields and Me." Commenting on the two roles, Bartly remarked:

"I hadn't read the Nathaniel West book until after I got the role in 'Day of the Locust.' Then I said, 'Wow, that little guy is a no good s.o.b.' All that cussing — those are words I don't generally use myself."

"I told my wife: 'Don't tell anybody at church about this picture.'"

"It was a real challenge to play a character so different from myself," Schlesinger told me. "Do it the way you feel," so I was able to establish my own character."

"Because of 'Day of the Locust,' I got 'W.C. Fields and Me.' Schlesinger and (producer Jerome) Hellman were kind enough to show my footage to Arthur Hiller and Jay Weston (director and producer of 'Fields')."

"The character is based on a real little person that Fields brought out from New York, and I play him with a German accent."

"Fields used to bat him around, but Ludwig was also said to be the only person that Fields really loved."

Note that Bartly uses the term "little person." It is not because he is sensitive about his shortness.

"I prefer 'little person' because it is more inclusive," he explained. "There are 52 kinds of dwarfism, of which midgets — people who are normally formed but small — are only one."

Now 50, Billy Bartly has been performing since 1928. He was born in Millsboro, Pa., to normal-size parents who moved to California. Billy first played Mickey Rooney's younger brother in the "Mickey McGuire" short comedies.

The 1930s were a busy time for him. He was the impish youngster who applied a canopener to Ruby Keeler's metal costume in "Goldiggers of 1933." He played Mustardseed in "A Midsummer's Night Dream" and four roles in Paramount's all-star "Alice in Wonderland."

In "Nothing Sacred," he epitomized a small town's inhospitality by biting Frederic March on the leg.

"I had made 120 films by 1938," he said. "Then I was out of the movie business until 1942, while my family did an act in the last days of vaudeville."

"When we came back, my folks decided to give me an education, and I went to Los Angeles City College and later to Los Angeles State College."

After the war, Billy plunged back into show business, appearing in early television with Milton Berle and James Melton, then joining Spike Jones in 1952 for a mad eight years of first-nighters and television.

His first real chance at dramatics came in TV with an "Alfred Hitchcock Presents" thriller, "The Glass Eye."

Over the years he has done just about everything, from his own local children's TV program, "Billy Bartly's Big Show," to playing "Irma La Douce" in road shows.

Four years ago, he was starting a year's run with "Funny Farm" in Las Vegas when he suffered a heart attack while onstage with Rip Taylor. After heart surgery, he proved as vigorous as ever.

Billy had long been concerned about those his size, and in 1957 formed Little People of America, Inc., which now boasts 2,500 members with branches in England, Germany, New Zealand, Australia and Holland.

"We marched on Washington and nobody saw us," Bartly cracks.

"I married a taller girl — 4 feet-3," he says, "and we have two children — a boy, 4½, who is almost as tall as I am, and a girl, 12½, who is going to be a little person."

"I'm concerned about little people, the lack of understanding of them and the lack of employment for them."

"Do you know that we can't get insurance because we're considered a bad risk? The companies use the excuse that they have no charts to calculate the insurance rate. As a matter of fact, we're a better risk, because we take better care of ourselves."

Lid Crunch Their Biggest Woe

WASHINGTON (AP) — "The people of Snover and Wilmet and Bad Axe and Bay City are angry," says U.S. Rep. Bob Traxler, D-Mich.

About gasoline prices? Inflation? The Middle East crisis? Perhaps, but what the people of his district are really angry about, says Traxler, is a lack of canning lids.

The Bay City lawmaker wants a House subcommittee to investigate marketing practices of home canning equipment makers, charging that some firms may be exploiting a shortage of canning supplies.

"It is the number one issue that I hear about when I visit with constituents," he said. "I think it is definitely time for Congress to get more deeply involved in this problem."

He said manufacturers or distributors may be forcing the sale of jar and lid combinations to home canners who find they cannot buy lids separately.

"They can purchase as many of the jar and lid combinations as they want," Traxler said. "People cannot find lids, period."

He said increased production since last year has led to an "excess of 100 million" jar-and-lid combinations with a "projected shortfall of lids alone" that could go as high as 1.2 billion units.

He said home canners are being forced to buy jars they don't need just to get the lids.

Traxler suggested some sort of federal action might be needed to force manufacturers to turn out adequate supplies of lids for home canners.

Michigan Town Seeks Vietnamese Doctors

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A physician is trying to attract at least two refugee Vietnamese doctors to the community of Millington to help in his practice, the Michigan Health Council says.

The request is coming from Dr. Maurice Chapin, a general practitioner in the Tuscola County community of 1,000, according to John A. Doherty, executive vice president of the council.

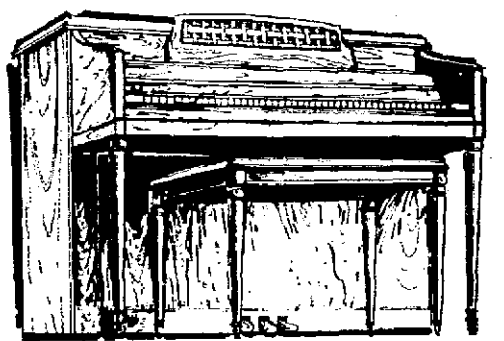

Doherty said the effort is connected to the attempt by two churches in Millington, St. Paul's Lutheran and United Methodist, to locate a Vietnamese family in the area.

Nearly 300 physicians are estimated to be among unsettled Vietnamese refugees. Less than a handful are licensed to practice in the United States, however.

Doherty said it is understood the doctors sought by Chapin would not be licensed.

"They would assist Dr. Chapin in the manner of nurses and technicians," Doherty said. "Dr. Chapin's practice covers a wide area and he says he is in need of somebody to help him."

Dr. Chapin was on vacation and not available for comment. Doherty said the Vietnamese could intern in hospital facilities in Flint to prepare for receiving U.S. licenses.

Name Cleared; Nightmare Ends

DETROIT (AP) — Anthony C. Diminnie's two-year nightmare is finally over.

Diminnie was convicted in April of plotting to extort $1 million from the U.S. Treasury Department — a crime he didn't commit — and faced 20 years in federal prison.

But the former motorcycle club president was cleared of all charges last week, when one of the Treasury Department's own agents confessed to the crime.

For the last two years, since he was first questioned by Treasury's Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms (ATF) Division about writing extortion letters, Diminnie said no employer would consider him for a job because of the charges pending against him.

Now, the 31-year-old 101st Airborne Division veteran said, he can start looking for work.

Diminnie was first brought before in for questioning in March 1973 after two ATF agents took him from his home to a Detroit courtroom.

"I had no idea what it was all about. I didn't know what they were after," Diminnie said.

The case climaxed last April, when a jury convicted him of plotting the extortion with threats to blow up federal buildings.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Michael Gladstone blamed the conviction on coincidence, mistaken expert testimony and a poor defense.

Diminnie, ex-president of the Scorpions motorcycle club, said at first he thought he was being questioned by the court about dynamite involving rival motorcycle gangs. He said none of the questions he was asked concerned the extortion plot.

The court asked Diminnie to provide samples of his handwriting — and expert testimony about those samples was the key to Diminnie's conviction.

Attorney Gladstone admitted the prosecution resulted from not only the handwriting samples but also Diminnie's outspoken criticism of the ATF.

That dislike began in the early 1950s when treasury agents searched the home of Diminnie's parents for dynamite believed used in motorcycle gang bombings. They found nothing.

When the extortion letters case opened, investigating agent Robert Rodemeyer decided the letters had been sent by a group — possibly a street gang, Gladstone said.

"Rodemeyer found that we had searched Mr. Diminnie's house a month before and that Diminnie was very excited about it," Gladstone said.

"Rodemeyer called him in and got some handwriting samples and, whammo, they matched."

Gladstone emphasized there was no attempt to frame Diminnie and that the government eventually turned up evidence which cleared Diminnie.

The agent who has confessed to writing the extortion letters is Daniel M. Patterson, who admitted to the crime while being questioned about operating a heroin ring. He begins a three-and-a-half year prison term today.

Gladstone said Patterson sent the letters threatening to blow up airplanes and the federal building out of "hate for the ATF."

Diminnie may have cause for bitterness after the ordeal but he insisted he holds no grudges.

"I'm not bitter at the Feds," he said. "I believe in my country. I just had trouble believing it was really happening to me."

State Loses Leadership In Black Elected Officials

WASHINGTON (AP) — Michigan no longer leads the nation in the number of elected black officials, but the Joint Center for Political Studies said the state has the largest number of black women in political office and is tied for the most black mayors.

The Washington-based organization said the number of black elected officials in Illinois and Louisiana bumped Michigan from first to third in the national rankings. Illinois added 94 black office holders last fall and went from fifth place into the lead with a total of 246 elected blacks.

Louisiana moved into second place with 237 black officials — an increase of 88.

Despite Michigan's drop in rank, the number of black elected officials in the state increased from 194 last year to 223 as of last month.

The Center said Michigan had 53 black women in political office — the most for any state — and ten black mayors, the same as in North Carolina and Ohio.

The center said six of the 10 Michigan cities with black mayors are predominantly white. Included are Grand Rapids, Ann Arbor, Albion, Ypsilanti, Pontiac and Benton Harbor.

The other Michigan cities with black mayors are Detroit, Highland Park, Inkster and Vandalia, and these have about the same number of black and white voters.

Unpaid Vouchers Reveal Plush Official Purchases

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Michigan Legislature and the state's two highest courts have spent taxpayers' money for such things as a $1,400 sofa, $1,200 settee and a $1,600 pair of barcelona chairs, according to an examination of unpaid vouchers by the Detroit News.

The furniture was for Court of Appeals Chief Clerk Ronald Dzierbicki, who said taxpayers got a bargain because the sofa, settee and chairs will not have to be replaced for a long time. The News said other bills in a stack of unpaid vouchers in the Department of Management and Budget included more than $500,000 worth of copying machines and $12,000 memory typewriters for the Michigan House.

Other unpaid vouchers included:

—Nearly $2,000 in out of state travel for the Senate to such places as Denver, San Diego and Milwaukee.

—More than $8,000 in postage for the House; a $320 lunch put on by the Supreme Court.

—A $100 lunch for members and staff aides of the legislative council.

—A $25 pencil sharpener for the House.

—$240 to clean drapes and another $90 for some Tasmanian gold custom-made drapes for an unnamed House member.

The Senate asked for an $800 check for former lobbyist George Engel, who worked eight days for the Senate at his contracted $100-a-day rate.

Chicago Cop Is Top Suspect In Two Saugatuck Slayings

By TOM RENNER
South Haven Correspondent
SOUTH HAVEN — Police authorities here expressed surprise over the weekend disclosure by a Chicago newspaper that a Chicago policeman is the prime suspect in the June 6th slayings of a Saugatuck township couple.

The Chicago Sun Times yesterday reported that a "hush hush" investigation by the Chicago police Internal Affairs Division is focusing on a Chicago policeman as the prime suspect in the gangland-style double murder of Harry Holzer, 51, and a woman friend, Linda Turner, 28.

"This is news to us," Lt. Glenn Foster, commander of the South Haven state police post, which is conducting the investigation.

Michigan authorities had indicated last week that they were without a suspect in the case. Police, here, had said the investigation was centering on the Chicago area, because Holzer had lived there most of his life, having moved to Michigan two years ago when he bought the Fennville Auto Parts company.

The Chicago newspaper article said the policeman under scrutiny, who was not identified, is assigned as a burglary investigator, but has also served in the robbery, gang intelligence, and stolen auto units.

The article said Holzer and Miss Turner were apparently murdered for fear that Holzer would tell what he knew about an alleged massive parts theft ring and payoffs made to police across the country to protect it.

Lt. Foster said Chicago police authorities had conferred with Michigan detectives assigned to the case. Foster said his department supplied a list of personal phone numbers found in the Holzer residence, which reportedly contained the names of several men believed to be Chicago policemen.

Holzer's partner at the Fennville Auto Parts firm when he was killed was John Darling, 31. The Chicago Sun Times article said Darling was once assigned to the stolen auto detail. According to the article, Darling said when he and Holzer became partners he knew of Holzer's arrest record but joined him because he had never been convicted and he knew Holzer as a neighbor.

Michigan authorities confirmed that they had been conducting an investigation into Holzer's auto firm, which included surveillance. Police here said they had not developed information to implicate Holzer in any illegal auto parts activity.

The Chicago Sun Times said Holzer had a record of arrests, but no convictions, and was an associate of several Chicago crime syndicate figures, including Steven Ostrowsky, whom investigators have described as the mastermind of a multi-million-dollar parts theft ring. Previously, according to the Sun Times, Holzer had been a partner of Ostrowsky in a Chicago auto parts firm.

The couple was found murdered in the dining room of their recently built home. Police had indicated there were no signs of a struggle and that it appeared the victims might have known their assailant. Both victims suffered multiple gunshot wounds from a handgun, according to police.

The Sun Times article also said that investigators have uncovered some interesting items concerning Ostrowsky. Another one-time partner of Ostrowsky, Harry D. Carlson, was killed in 1969 when a dynamite bomb exploded as he started his auto. In addition, the article said Robert Pronger Jr., a stock car driver who associated with Ostrowsky and other members of the parts ring, disappeared in 1971 and is presumed dead. Finally, former Chicago police Lt. Robert J. Fischer testified in 1974 that he and three other auto theft investigators received $800 monthly payoffs from Ostrowsky in 1970 and 1971.

Anti-Crime Package To Debut Soon

DETROIT (AP) — A special county program to capture, prosecute and keep repeat criminals off the streets will open in July, the Wayne County prosecutor's office announced.

The career criminal program is designed to go after these people, segregate them in prisons away from the rest of us for the maximum amount of time possible under the law," said Peter Karapetian, top assistant to Prosecutor William Cahalan.

Karapetian said plea bargaining, in which a defendant is allowed to plead guilty to a lesser charge, would not be used. He also reported the unit would use state laws which provide stiffer sentences for those who continually run afoul of the law.

The new unit will have 11 prosecutors, two investigators and operate on federal and county funds totaling about $640,000.

Death Causes Listed For Infant

Heat exhaustion and suffocation have been listed as the causes of death of a five-month-old Three Rivers infant who died in a parked car Friday while a relative worked in the fields of a Pipestone township farm.

The infant, Saul Mosley, was pronounced dead at 12:09 p.m. at Berrien General hospital.

Dr. Weldon J. Cooke, medical director at the hospital, said the death certificate listed the causes of death as heat exhaustion and suffocation. The family would not permit an autopsy, he said. Berrien sheriff's deputy Jack Root said the youngster had been left in the car under the supervision of a six-year-old girl.

The boy apparently tumbled from a chair into blankets on the floor board where his body was found by a field foreman on the John Timmreck farm off M-140, just south of M-62, near Eau Claire in Pipestone township.

Root said the baby had been left in the auto by his grandmother, Mrs. Catherine Barze, 35, of 920 Broadway, Three Rivers. The infant's mother was identified as Carrie Mosley, also of 920 East Broadway, Three Rivers.

No charges have been filed, Root said.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday in Finch funeral home, where friends may call. Burial will be in Crystal Springs cemetery.

Auto Layoffs Remain Low

DETROIT (AP) — Worker layoffs in the nation's auto industry this week remain close to their lowest levels of the year as the companies begin their final 1975-model production runs. Although one out of five production workers is still on indefinite furlough, the number of employees idled as a result of slumping sales has been receding slowly, but steadily, for four months. Indefinite layoffs now affect 141,000 of 710,000 workers, compared with a peak of 270,000 in February. In addition, 4,150 workers are on temporary layoff this week — 1,150 at General Motors' Wilmington, Del., plant, which is down for a nine-week new model changeover, and 3,000 at American Motors' Jeep plant in Toledo, Ohio, closed for an inventory adjustment.

Coloma Shopping Center Plans Progressing

COLOMA — Start of construction on the first building of a proposed multi-million-dollar shopping center east of here will begin within 45 days, developer James Hipskind of Coloma said over the weekend.

The 100 by 50-foot brick and steel building will be the first of several planned buildings that will make up the Country Square shopping center, he said.

More buildings will be erected as they are leased by businesses, he said.

The shopping center is to be located south of Red Arrow highway, just outside the eastern Coloma city limits.

The site is the former Verdemac farm property between Red Arrow highway and Ryno road and is adjacent to the announced site of the future Coloma branch of the First National Bank of Watervliet.

Hipskind said a 130 by 80-foot portion of the 13½-acre site would be blacktopped for parking areas.

The cost for the first phase of the development, including excavation, blacktopping and building, were estimated at $100,000 by Hipskind.

Plans announced in December, 1971, calling for stores to surround the center are still valid, according to Hipskind, but buildings will be steel and brick instead of wood.

The center is to be fully enclosed and climatized after the development is complete, he said. Work on architect's drawings and details surrounding the complex have been underway for several months, added Hipskind.

The building to be erected will be available for leasing within 90 days, he said.

U.S. May Probe Foreign Pricing

WASHINGTON (AP) — A top Treasury official says he expects the government to launch an investigation of whether foreign automakers are selling cars in the United States at prices below their home markets. David Macdonald, assistant Treasury secretary for tariff affairs, said in a weekend interview that he has returned to Rep. John H. Dent, D-Pa., a formal request for a broad investigation of alleged "dumping" of foreign cars on the U.S. market. Macdonald said the complaint from Dent was deficient in some respects but Dent's staff has assured the Treasury Department that a revised complaint will be filed. "I would predict we will have a valid complaint filed with us in the foreseeable future," Macdonald said.

BELL SEEKS INCREASE

Inflation Hits 10¢ Phone Call

The days of the 10-cent coin telephone call may be numbered.

Michigan Bell asked the state Public Service Commission for permission to raise the price of a local coin call to 20 cents as part of an $88 million rate request filed last April in Lansing.

"The telephone company cannot realistically provide coin telephone service for 10 cents," said Edward A. Mabin, Michigan Bell's district manager, "because at today's prices, it costs about double that amount to handle a local coin call."

"We've kept the price of a local coin call at 10 cents for 23 years," Mabin said, "but steadily rising costs and inflation have forced the company to ask for this increase in coin rates."

Today, it costs Michigan Bell $220 for a typical coin telephone set, but 23 years ago it cost only about $60, he explained. The cost of a typical phone booth has jumped from about $160 to $530 during the same period.

Mabin said it costs the company more than $850 annually to keep each coin telephone in service. He said Michigan Bell has more than 52,000 pay phones in the state — including about 340 in the Benton Harbor area.

Although vandalism and theft do not add up to large sums, he noted, they also contribute to the overall costs of coin telephone service.

Around the state last year, Mabin said, about $7,800 in coin telephone receipts were stolen from Bell's pay stations and the company spent more than $31,000 to repair or replace damaged or stolen coin telephone equipment.

"These losses ultimately are shared by all our customers," he said, "which means that all our customers are helping to pay for telephone vandalism and theft."

Over the years, Michigan Bell and the rest of the Bell System have been looking for the toughest phone at the lowest price, Mabin noted.

"We've developed better locks for coin boxes designed to frustrate lock pickers," he said, "and, as the master 'picker' learns to beat one system, we come up with a new modification."

"We've also tried to make things harder for the 'strong-arm' thieves. We have made pay phones with steel housings specially designed to give maximum protection against thieves and vandals. We've even mounted them on steel posts anchored in concrete," Mabin said.

Today's modern glass and metal pay station is a far cry from the first telephone booth which was hastily improvised in 1877 by Thomas A. Watson, assistant to Alexander Graham Bell, he continued.

Bell and Watson had set up a laboratory in a Boston rooming house, but relations with the landlady were strained because they had to shout to be heard over the primitive telephone.

One night Watson crawled beneath a mound of blankets in an attempt to muffle his shouting and soothe the landlady. That first "phone booth" proved so effective that the landlady stopped complaining about the noise.

The first patent for a telephone booth was issued in 1883, seven years after Bell invented the telephone. The first booths made a caller feel at home — many were lavishly furnished with curtains, screens and rugs and were equipped with desk, pen and ink.

Through the years, designers have created many special designs, including pagoda-shaped booths in Chinese communities, a palm-thatched enclosure in Hawaii, a totem pole booth in Seattle, a pilot-house booth from an old oyster boat in Connecticut and children's booths in amusement parks everywhere.

The manner of collecting for calls also has changed over the years. The phone in one early booth required no money to operate, but the caller had to deposit a coin to get out of a self-locking door.

After World War II, public phones in Japan also worked without depositing money, but the caller was expected to put 10 yen in a box beside the phone. The system failed. Many callers didn't pay mainly because the war-damaged network frequently connected wrong numbers. The pay boxes amassed a rash of nasty notes and an occasional IOU.

Science Looks To Sea For Power

By RICHARD SALTUS
AP Science Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Temperature differences in ocean water could spin the turbines of floating power stations to help meet America's energy needs, a research company says.

It's a "something-for-nothing" idea, since the energy is already there: heat from the sun held in the oceans' waters.

By the year 2000, said Art Griffin of TRW Systems Inc., ocean energy could provide some 6 per cent of the country's total need. And the process could also be used to make ammonia, an important component of fertilizer which is getting increasingly scarcer.

The idea is nearly a century old, but not until recently did it seem possible to extract ocean power at a cost comparable to conventional generating methods, says Griffin.

Now, the concept is being studied by three teams of researchers: the TRW-led team; one at the University of Massachusetts and one at Carnegie-Mellon University.

Their proposals will be considered by the Energy Research Development Administration, which is looking for alternative sources of energy such as solar, geothermal and ocean power. Then perhaps the go-ahead will be given to build a test project.

As TRW conceives them, the power stations would be 17-story concrete cylinders, wide as a football field, floating with more than half their height underwater.

Pumps would take in surface water, which might be as warm as 80 degrees in semitropical areas, as well as colder water from 4,000 feet or so below the surface.

The latter, as much as 45 degrees colder than at the surface, would be pumped up through a large plastic tube like a giant drinking straw.

The hot and cold water would be used to alternately heat and cool ammonia circulated continuously through a system of pipes.

As it was heated and compressed, the ammonia would turn into a gas, like steam, which would spin turbine wheels to generate power. Then it would be cooled and condensed back into a liquid, ready for another cycle of power production.

"The fuel is free," said Griffin. "All you pay for is the equipment." That would be expensive at first; it would cost about $210 million to build a prototype station to churn out 100 megawatts.

But once in production, he said, the expense could likely be brought down to about $1,000 per megawatt, which "compares very favorably with conventional plants," he said.

One factor in placing the plants is that they must be located where the temperature difference — or vertical temperature gradient, as it is known to scientists — is at least 39 degrees.

Some places under consideration are the Gulf of Mexico, the Caribbean and off the southwest coast of Mexico.

Getting the power from the station to where it is needed is still being studied. Cables could take the electricity to shore.

"The process of making ammonia requires energy," says Griffin. "So if we use the stations to make ammonia — which can be shipped by boat to land — we would save other forms of energy that would be used in making ammonia."

The ammonia would be created in tandem with electrical production. Nitrogen from the air would be combined with hydrogen obtained through electrolysis of the seawater.

Griffin said that about 2 per cent of America's natural gas is now used in ammonia manufacture. This gas could be diverted to other uses if ammonia were made at sea.

Scientists foresee little if any effect on the environment from the stations. In fact, by pumping nutrient-rich water up from the depths, the plants might improve the fishery situation in their vicinity.

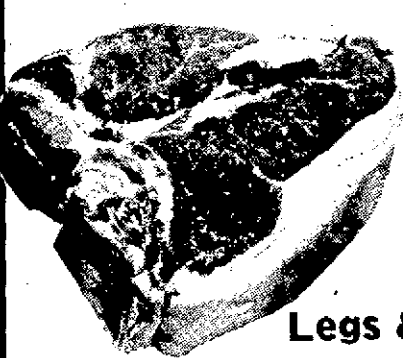

TRW says there are technical problems that must be overcome before such a plant could be built and put in place.

ACCORD ON TEACHER STRIKE BILL IS SEEN NEAR

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — An agreement between Gov. William Milliken and ruling legislative Democrats on a bill legalizing teacher strikes is likely and a veto of the bill probably will be averted.

That appears to be the consensus of lawmakers and staff who are in close touch with the bargaining over the school strike measure. The agreement may not come this week, however, as discussions begin again between school and labor organizations, the governor and lawmakers.

Milliken pledged last week to veto a House-passed measure to permit teacher strikes of up to five weeks, three of which could be made up, with pay, at the end of the school year.

He wants a shorter strike period, immediate monetary loss for both teachers and school districts to discourage strikes, and clearer language in the bill spelling out injunction provisions to force the end to strikes.

Milliken's strong statement drew immediate partisan reaction from Democrats, who accused the governor of avoiding the problem and then criticizing the result. But with the rhetoric delivered, everybody began talking about how to get a bill passed this summer.

"It will be difficult, but generally on a major issue we end up doing something," said Senate Minority Leader Robert Davis, R-Gaylord. "But it will take a couple of weeks."

But, he warned, "the governor is not talking about listening to a compromise. This is not as compromiseable as unemployment compensation."

Milliken issued the same veto promise over a bill raising unemployment compensation benefits, leading to further discussions. The Democrats finally recalled the bill from his desk and toned it down, although they got most of what they wanted.

The partisan lines are not as solid on this issue, however.

"Why risk a veto when we couldn't have even overridden a veto of as staunchly a Democratic bill as unemployment comp?" one staff member said.

Sen. David Plawecki, D-Deerborn Heights, chairman of the Senate Labor Committee which is considering the bill, says he is preparing amendments to meet some of Milliken's objections. They are expected to tighten up the strike period somewhat.

Republicans on the committee say they will offer amendments to bring the bill in line with Milliken's demands.

Plawecki himself is in a delicate situation. Residents in the Deerborn Heights Crestwood district, which experienced a bitter teacher strike last year, are threatening to try and recall Plawecki if he votes for a bill legalizing extended strikes.

"My major concern is to get a bill through," Plawecki said. He added he wasn't worried about the effect of the "small group" of parents.

But, he said at one point last week, if labor opposes the bill that emerges from his committee, "so be it." That kind of talk has led others to say a stalemate probably can be averted.

Lawmakers Could Lose Vacations

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Michigan Legislature returns today for a rare Monday afternoon session as long battles loom over teacher strikes, bus and political reform.

The unusual starting time — session normally begins at 8 p.m. on Monday — reflects lawmakers' end-of-the-fiscal-year concern that they may be around all summer. As the weeks drone on, sessions become later and both chambers meet Fridays in hope of salvaging summer vacations. The fiscal year ends today and there is growing pessimism among legislators and staff that it may be close to August before adjournment. That is because of the crucial and controversial items that need action in addition to passing a new $3 billion budget.

A "continuation budget" will be passed to permit the state to spend at current levels through the first few weeks of the new fiscal year. And the new budget should not provide serious trouble.

But the accompanying issues could tie the legislature in knots for weeks, leaders admit. House Majority Floor Leader Joseph Forbes, D-Oak Park, set July 19 as adjournment date, but nearly everyone regards that as a hopeless dream.

House Speaker Bobby Crim, in one of the gloomiest forecasts yet, said last week that lawmakers could adjourn by Aug. 1 if the business tax revision is approved by then. He didn't say what the date would be if the bill stalls.

A drawn-out session can have differing affects. It can lead lawmakers to throw up their hands and ram legislation through in their impatience to be gone, or they can drop a hot issue and flee, to deal with it in the fall.

Both have happened recently. The budget was passed in one 22-hour, overnight, marathon session last year, and the Senate quit in disgust without passing a key campaign reform bill seven months before that.

There is no guarantee of action this week on any of the crucial items that leaders say must be resolved by adjournment. The business tax revision is nearing an "up or down" vote in the House, but negotiations are still continuing.

The bill has hung on mainly because it promises to bring in a one-time windfall of $180 million next year, critical to balancing the budget.

Discussion has not begun in the House on the sweeping political reform bill, but it is expected to take days to sift through a pile of amendments. A House-passed bill to permit school strikes is delayed at least until Wednesday in the Senate Labor Committee while Democratic leaders talk about how, or if, they should try to avoid a promised gubernatorial veto.

Ironically, the only thing going well is the passage of the budget, which won't see a nickle approved as the new fiscal year starts. Both appropriations committees have approved nearly all their bills, and the chambers are scheduled to exchange the measures this week.

That will clear the way for serious cutting and trimming to bring them into line with Milliken's projected revenues.

Drowning Probe Launched

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP) — State Police say they will investigate the death of a severely retarded and physically handicapped man found strapped to a chair in a whirlpool at the Muskegon Developmental Center. Muskegon police said Bruce Michaels, 28, was found by an attendant at the center Friday with his face underwater. He was being routinely bathed and the attendant left the room to get his pajamas, according to Ronald C. Hindbaugh, the center's program director. Another attendant discovered the body a short time afterward, he said. Hindbaugh said it was against the rules for the attendant to leave Michaels alone in the whirlpool bath. The attendant was relieved of duties pending an investigation. An autopsy was scheduled to determine the cause of death.

Vacation Ends In Tragedy

SULLIVAN, Mo. (AP) — The vacation trip of a family from Grandville, Mich., ended in tragedy when a 12-year-old daughter was killed as their van and camping trailer were wrecked on Interstate 44.

The victim was identified by the Missouri Highway Patrol as Annette Hoelsema, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hoelsema.

Her mother, Joann Hoelsema, 39, was reported in critical condition at the Sullivan hospital with severe head lacerations and internal injuries.

The highway patrol said the family's van, towing a 24-foot camper, was being driven westbound by Terry John Hoelsema, 16. A tractor-trailer truck overtook the Hoelsema vehicles and apparently set up a turbulence, causing the youth to lose control.

The accident was about 70 miles southwest of St. Louis.

Terry Hoelsema was the least injured, the patrol said. His father was treated for lacerations on the head and a back injury. John Hoelsema, Jr., 19, had head lacerations and possible internal injuries. Mary Hoelsema, 18, was treated for injuries to her chest and left leg. Joan Hoelsema, 10, suffered face lacerations.

TO PAY VICTIMS

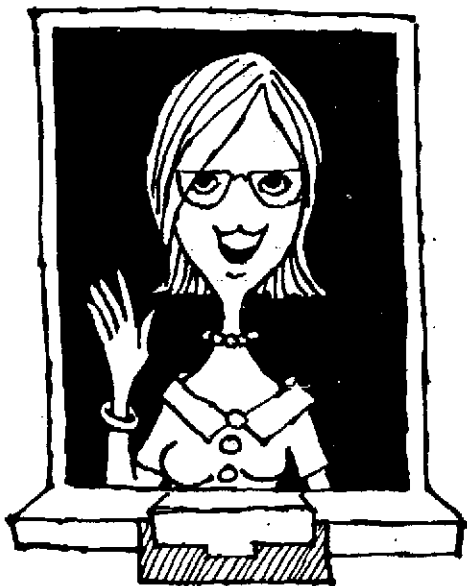

BOSTON (AP) — Delta Airlines has agreed to pay $2.2 million in damages to the families of 11 of the 89 victims of its DC9 jet crash at Logan International Airport on July 31, 1973.

Pro-CIA Letters Faked; U.S. Newspapers Fooled

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — Fake letters from nonexistent Jews defending the CIA and the FBI appeared during May and June in newspapers throughout the country, the Jackson Citizen Patriot reported in its Sunday editions.

All were similar in style and carried return addresses in Texas, the newspaper said, adding that a check of several revealed the persons who purportedly signed the letters did not live there.

"CIA and FBI spokesmen deny their agencies sent the letters," the newspaper said.

The Citizen Patriot said it was among the newspapers duped, having published one of the letters in its May 23 "Voice of the People" column. The letter was signed "Barney Goldfarb of the Fairmount Hotel, Dallas, Tex."

The Dallas Antidefamation League of B'nai B'rith reports no persons by that name recently resided at the Fairmount, according to the Citizen Patriot.

The newspaper said a Jackson insurance agent became suspicious when he read the letter and forwarded a copy of it to the ADL in Detroit.

Investigation disclosed that the "Goldfarb" letter appeared in at least 12 newspapers.

In all cases, the writer claimed to be a former local resident who has retired to Dallas.

Editors of the involved newspapers say this "local angle" was employed to trick them into publishing the bogus letters, according to the Citizen Patriot.

One letter-writer said he is a Jew who was "rescued by the CIA from East European Communist tyranny and death." He identifies the FBI as the agency responsible for obtaining clearance for him to live and work in America.

The letter admonished fellow Jews for "defaming the FBI and CIA, who have done much for Jews throughout the world."

Charles Wittenstein, ADL southern counsel and civil rights director, is coordinating efforts to trace the origin of the letters from his Atlanta office, according to the Citizen Patriot. He was quoted as saying a Jew would not write such a letter.

Wittenstein told the Jackson newspaper by telephone "many of the letters contain references to the Jewish race, and no Jew would do that."

All the letters were signed by "Jewish-sounding names," Wittenstein said.

"They don't all contain the exact language, but the writer often claims familiarity with the town to which the letter was sent."

"Another consistent theme was that Southeast Asia was dumped to provide arms to Israel. That is patently ridiculous. I think there was ample demonstration that the American people favored withdrawal from Southeast Asia."

The newspaper reported Wittenstein said he wasn't prepared to say the letter-writing campaign was a group effort, but didn't believe the CIA or the FBI prepared the letters.

In addition to the Citizen Patriot, other newspapers reported by the ADL as having printed similar letters were the Jacksonville, Fla., Journal; Greenville, S.C., Piedmont; Lancaster, Pa., Intelligencer-Journal; Houston Chronicle; New Orleans Times-Picayune; Alexandria, La., Town Talk; Oklahoma City Oklahoman; Dallas Morning News; Dallas Times Herald and Sumpter, S.C., Independent Democrat.

The Citizen Patriot said it contacted FBI spokesman Tom Herrington of Washington, who said "this is the first I've heard of it. There's nothing illegal about what they're doing."

A high-ranking CIA official, who asked not to be identified, echoed Herrington's comment and said any investigation would be handled by the FBI, not the CIA, according to the newspaper.

The Citizen Patriot said Greenville editorial page editor Mack McConnell said "this is the first time I've been burned. It really shook me up."

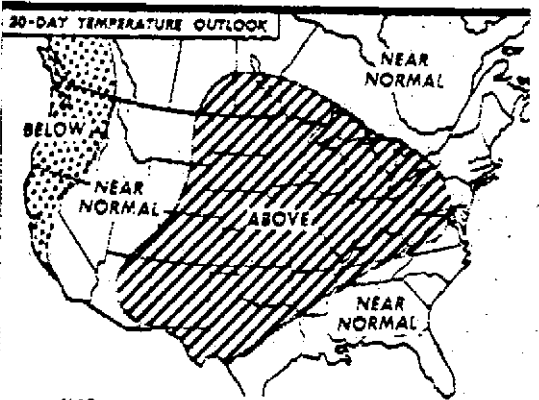

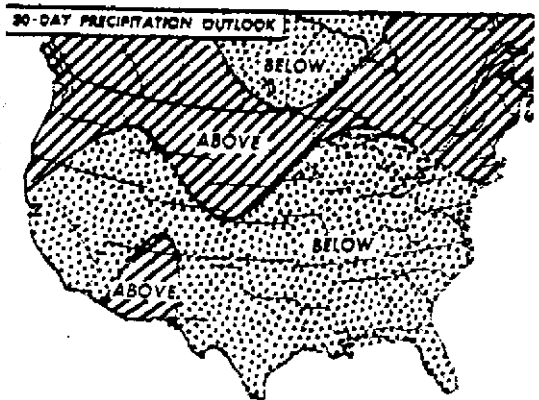

The letter to the Piedmont was signed "Abraham Goldberg, Driskill Hotel, Austin, Tex."

It began: "I was a traveling salesman who worked out of Greenville before my retirement."

McConnell told the Citizen Patriot: "There's an address like that in Austin, but there's no record of a person like that."

The letter to the Intelligencer-Journal in Pennsylvania was signed "Abe Klein, Sheraton-Fort Worth."

The writer identified himself as a former teacher from the Lancaster area, the editor of the Intelligencer-Journal, William Shultz, told the Jackson newspaper. But a check with the Sheraton-Fort Worth revealed nobody named Abe Klein had registered there, Shultz said.

Clark Unveils New Log Loader

A rubber-tired, articulated log loader, with a maximum operating capacity of 49,000 pounds, has been introduced by Clark Equipment company, construction machinery division, Benton Harbor.

Designated the Clark 125B, the new log loader has a heavy-duty, double-plate boom design with in-line boom and grapple cylinders for quick and solid hydraulic response. The 125B's hydraulic system features dual filtration, three gear type pumps and a capacity of 87 gallons to help dissipate heat. The 125B has an all-Clark powertrain that includes Clark powershift transmission with four speeds forward and reverse; torque converter, heavy-duty planetary axles; and limited slip differentials front and rear. Power train components are independently mounted to provide a low center of gravity for added stability.

Engine options for the 125B log loader include a Cummins VT-555-C or GM 6V-71N85. The eight cylinder Cummins develops 210 flywheel horsepower while the six cylinder GM develops 212 flywheel hp.

Length of standard forks on the log grapple measure 5 feet, with overall width 7 ft. 10 inches. Maximum opening of the clamp is 9 feet 7 inches and minimum closure is 3 feet 10 inches.

Optional all-enclosed steel cab provides 80 cubic inches of space and has many features designed for operator safety, comfort, convenience and efficiency. Incoming air is first filtered, then pressurized and circulated around the operator. An optional air-conditioner, when added, becomes an integral part of the air system. The cab also has added sound insulation, six-way adjustable seat, front and rear wipers and two lockable storage compartments.

Disc brakes on the 125B operate by an air-over-hydraulic system and have self-adjusting 18 inch diameter discs. Emergency brake is activated manually or automatically by low air pressure and meets SAE J237.

Escape Injury

MAPLE RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Two Royal Oak men, Robert Mann, and David Perkins, escaped injury in the forced landing of their light plane in a farm field near Maple Rapids Sunday, State Police said.

NEW CLARK LOG LOADER: Clark 125B log loader, with a maximum operating capacity of 49,000 pounds, has been introduced by Clark Equipment company, construction machinery division, Benton Harbor. 'Average Citizen' Tells What Future Should Be

NEW YORK (AP) — In 1985, federal taxes will be outlawed and smoking banned.

The elderly no longer will be shut off to nursing institutions but will be cared for at home; mandatory retirement will be moved down to age 50 in order to provide more jobs; and, to help curb population growth, perspective parents will have to apply for permits.

These are not the ramblings of an ambitious social scientist or an avant garde politician. They are goals some average citizens would like to see become realities in the near future.

As part of a promotion for a new book by Alvin Toffler, author of "Future Shock," 45 radio talk shows around the country were asked to have their listeners call in their predictions of newspaper headlines for next year and for 10 years from now.

Alan Christian of WBAL in Baltimore, Md., said during the three hours his show was broadcast, about 45 people called in offering headlines.

"People are interested in new ideas," he said. "Like moving cities underground and reclaiming the surface for agricultural purposes, or putting cities in orbit around the earth and doing the same thing."

Other talk show hosts noted optimism from some of their listeners, but saw a growing disenchantment with present-day decision making in others.

For example, an Atlanta, Ga., listener said the economic upswing will continue next year, but a Milwaukee, Wis., listener called in that the recession will continue. Similarly, for next year: another Atlanta participant said: "Doctors solve malpractice insurance cost problem," while a Milwaukee resident said: "Half of nation's doctors quit practice over insurance costs."

In political news for next year, listeners reported Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., elected president as well as Vice President Rockefeller. One Dallas resident called in a headline saying "Rockefeller nominates Secretary of State Henry Kissinger for vice president."

Other 1976 headlines included: "California falls into sea," "Ford proposes $1.5 billion relief for Israeli refugees," "Nixon turns down cabinet post

ONLY FINK: Hundreds of people turned out recently to help folks named Fink hold a festive reunion and celebrate National Fink Day in the North Texas village of Fink. When it came time to count the Finks, none could be found; then someone remembered there was an Oscar Fink from Denison, Texas. Oscar, in his 80s, was located at the general store and chatted with newsmen. Oscar is called poet laureate of Fink but declined to make up a poem about Fink, but said he could write a lot of poems about Watergate. (AP Wirephoto)

Four tornadoes slashed through North Dakota Sunday night killing one person and injuring four, as furious summer weather struck in the Northern Plains.

One twister swept through the southwestern part of the state, tearing a 30-mile path of destruction. One person was reported dead on arrival at a hospital in the town of Hettinger. Hettinger County Sheriff Earl Kramer said a tornado, which hit about 9 p.m., ravaged several farms and killed many cattle.

Two trailer homes also were destroyed, as was numerous farm equipment, said Kramer.

Berrien Slaying Trial To Begin

A murder trial is scheduled to begin tomorrow in Berrien circuit court for a former insurance salesman accused of engineering the murder of a woman whose body was found in a Sodus township ditch.

Trial for Lorenzo Cross, 25, of 1905 Union street, Benton township, will be held in the courtroom of Judge William S. White. Cross will be tried on charges of murder and conspiracy to commit murder.

He's accused in the murder of Audrey Bridgewater Walker, 26, of 239 Pipestone street, Benton Harbor, on Feb. 18, and conspiring with another man to commit the murder. Mrs. Walker's body was found Feb. 28 in a ditch along Yore avenue, and death was attributed to shotgun wounds.

Cross is being held at the county jail without bond, along with a co-defendant, Terry Y. Langford, 23, of Benton Harbor. Langford, also accused of murder, testified against Cross at the preliminary examination in district court as part of a deal with the prosecutor's office. Chief Assistant Prosecutor Robert U. McDowell at that time said the prosecutor's office would allow Langford to plead guilty to second degree murder in exchange for testimony.

Langford is listed as one of the prosecution witnesses for the trial.

The trial, scheduled for three to five days, will pit McDowell against Defense Counsel Alphonse Lewis of Grand Rapids.

Langford at the preliminary examination testified that Mrs. Walker voluntarily purchased $3,000 worth of insurance from Cross, and named Langford as the beneficiary. But, he said, no money was paid out after the death. Cross sold insurance for Western-Southern Life Insurance Co.

State Pig Production At 7-Year Low

By JIM KEEGSTRA
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan this year has seen its smallest crop of newborn pigs in seven years due to high grain costs and low pork prices.

Commercial pork production from January to March was 10 per cent below 1974 and the April-to-June drop is expected to be twice that, farm experts say.

Production in the second half of this year is expected to remain around 15 to 17 per cent below last year.

Farmers intend to have some 64,000 sows give birth from June through November, says the Michigan Crop Reporting Service.

The service's assistant statistician in charge, Steve Psodona, said that last year with hog prices rather low and grain costs for feed at a high, hog growers became discouraged and sold off much of their stock for slaughter. Some went out of business and others turned to raising crops for their income, he said.

The effect was to lower the number of pigs saved for sale this year and to reduce those available for breeding more porkers.

An estimate of the number of hogs and pigs on Michigan farms on June 1 showed 650,000 head, down 13 per cent from the same time last year.

"These are rather hefty drops," Psodona said.

Though pork prices are now around a respectable level, grain and high-protein hog feed costs are still at high levels also.

The hog price drop which resulted in today's reduced population began back in late 1973.

Payments to hog farmers hit a high of 58.6 cents a pound in August, 1973, went down to 45.5 cents in September and kept declining to a low of 24.9 cents a pound in June of 1974.

By July 1974, the price had started back up, reaching 39.5 cents last fall. This March it was still 39.7, but in May the price rose to 46.5 cents a pound.

Meanwhile, the cost of corn jumped from $1.07 a bushel in mid-1972 to $2.01 in 1973, $2.55 last year and 2.47 this May.

The hog population figures nationally are similar. The U.S. December through May crop of 35.3 million piglets was the smallest in 40 years. This is 22 per cent below a year ago.

The hog and pig population on U.S. farms June 1 was estimated at 48.2 million, the lowest since estimates began in 1964 and 19 per cent down from 1974.

Kazoo, Van Buren County Jobless Rate Is Down

Combined unemployment in Kalamazoo and Van Buren counties during May was down slightly from the previous month, according to figures released by the Michigan Employment Security commission.

For the two county area, about 13,300 persons or 10.6 per cent of the total labor force of 126,000 were out of work, compared to 13,800 people (11 per cent) in April.

May was the first month since August, 1974 that the unemployment rate declined, according to the MESCC. A year ago unemployment totaled 5,900 people or 4.9 per cent of the labor force.

Separate statistics for Kalamazoo and Van Buren counties are not kept.

Employment, presently at 112,700, is 600 people above the mid-April level, but 2,000 below that of May, 1974.

According to the MESCC, production workers in manufacturing industries in the area averaged $5.41 per hour for 40.1 hours per week, or an average weekly pay of $217.02 during April. This compared with an average weekly pay of $209.77 for the same workers during March.

During May the Consumer Price Index rose .4 per cent, the smallest increase of any month since January, 1974, according to the MESCC.

Congress Rebutts Ford's Charge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rebutting President Ford's "donothing" charge, the House Democratic Study Group has issued an analysis it said shows the 94th Congress to be "the most active and productive" since World War II.

The study group of about 230 liberal and moderate House Democrats said Friday that this Congress has put in more hours, taken more record votes and passed more major bills during its first six months than any in a quarter-century.

FBI Reservation Hunt Continues

PINE RIDGE, S.D. (AP) — The FBI has no positive identification on the 16 persons sought in the shooting deaths of two agents on the Pine Ridge

Indian Reservation, but "we have a pretty good indication of who they are," a spokesman said. Spokesman Thomas Coll said

Sunday that more than 150 agents were searching the rolling, rugged hills of the reservation, the second largest in the country, for the 16 persons believed to have been involved in the deaths of agents Ronald Williams and Jack Coler.

Williams and Coler, both 28, were gunned down Thursday afternoon as they attempted to serve federal warrants on four men. One of the four, Teddy Paul Pourier, was arrested earlier Thursday at his home. Another, Herman Thunder Hawk, was arrested Saturday near Murdo, about 100 miles from Pine Ridge.

Remaining at large were Robert Horse and James Eagle. Coll said the two agents were shot when they attempted to serve the warrant on Eagle.

The body of an Indian, identified Sunday as Joseph Bedell Stuntz, 24, of the Lapwai Agency in Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, was found at the shooting site. Coll said Stuntz was wearing a coat belonging to one of the slain agents.

As the FBI continued a search of the area and conducted interviews with the Oglala Sioux who live on the reservation, a number of residents signed a petition asking the agents to leave.

Residents of the community of Oglala said Sunday they did not want the FBI to continue its activities on the reservation. Coll said the bureau had not seen the petition and that agents would continue their search until the 16 persons are found or until it is determined that they are not on the reservation.

'51st Governor' Candidacy Really A Joke In U.P.

GLADSTONE, Mich. (AP) — Gladstone bank executive Herb Heger swears he is not now, nor has he ever been, a candidate for governor of "the 51st state."

Sure, there's been a saturation campaign of bumper stickers, lapel buttons and stories on radio and in the newspapers in this neck of the Upper Peninsula recently.

But Heger says the candidacy is just the latest episode in a running war between him and "campaign manager" Blake Ballard, a local dentist.

Heger returned home from an out-of-town meeting last week and found all of Delta County covered with signs and stickers touting him for governor of the 51st state.

The "state," to be known as Superior, includes Michigan's Upper Peninsula plus neighboring Wisconsin counties. It has been proposed with varying degrees of seriousness by alienated and whimsical area residents.

When Heger pulled up at his house in Gladstone, 10 miles north of Escanaba, he discovered a campaign party in progress in his backyard.

Heger said he was stunned.

"I didn't know what was going on. Hell, I've never had any political aspirations," the 37-year-old executive vice president of the Gladstone State Bank said.

"I am the victim of one of the best practical jokes ever played," Heger confessed Sunday. Then he added, "No, it's the second best. The best will be the one I play on Blake."

The stunt was Ballard's revenge for a joke Heger pulled on the dentist a few weeks ago.

Ballard mentioned to Heger that he was looking for a name for his 19-foot sailboat. About that time, Ballard ran the boat around on nearby Butler's Island.

So Heger ran a contest coupon in a local newspaper, asking for suggested names for the dentist's boat. The ad said the prize for the best name would be a free ride in Ballard's sailboat to Butler's Island — and a free ride back on a Coast Guard rescue cutter.

Hundreds of tricked readers sent in names. "Tooth Fairy" was probably the best," Heger gloated. When people caught on to the joke, Heger recalled Ballard was more than a little embarrassed.

So the dentist came back with the fake campaign.

Ballard aide Dennis Hoegh, who helped distribute campaign literature, said, "Everybody thought it was for real and many still do. It's created a big stir up here."

Heger admitted, "A lot of people think I'm running for governor and it's hard to convince them it's all a joke."

Already Heger is plotting for the next joke he'll pull on Ballard. "I may spend the next year just planning it," Heger said slyly.

States.

Even if low interest Export-Import Bank credits for the Soviet Union are continued the United States government is unlikely to approve sale of some things such as aircraft plants that the Soviets want most.

We have been lending hundreds of millions of dollars to the Soviet Union at a time when millions of Americans can not get a mortgage loan to buy a home. While the industrialized western world wallows in a flood of unsold automobiles, the communist nations are in the process of building and selling more cars in 1975. The steel industries are calling on the government to clamp tighter curbs on exports. With all this help from the United States it certainly is not surprising these foreign countries are so progressive.

Now, what about those lawmakers on junket. It sure is wonderful to be a lawmaker and be able to take off on those extravagant trips with a sum of $825 each for their expenses and those of their wives from government funds. Also nice to be a House member and quietly vote an additional 10 million to make life easier for themselves. It really has been a terrible imposition on our congressmen that they had to stay in Washington during those long weekends since the House works such a short week. They have been left with a boring amount of free time on their hands in the Capitol. Now they want to have two or three weekends out of every five. We taxpayers generously give them a free round trip ride home. The idea was theirs, however, not ours.

Clamp Down On Fiesta

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — The annual Fiesta de Santa Fe, after 200 years of celebrations, finds in 1975 that it has run afoul of government regulations. The Santa Fe city council has been told it will have to limit or eliminate some of the traditional food booths set up on the Santa Fe Plaza in order to comply with New Mexico Environmental Improvement Agency standards.

Something Fishy About Shark Sightings

TOOTHY: Chris DeFord, 19, whose right arm was severely mauled by blue tip shark in 1973, looks through set of jaws that once belonged to a sand tiger shark. DeFord, of Virginia Beach, Va., now collects shark jaws. (AP Wirephoto)

By Associated Press
The power of suggestion has prompted shark sightings in a few resort areas where the movie "Jaws" is drawing record crowds, but officials say most of the danger is in the imagination. They report that tourist business has been unaffected.

The movie which recently opened around the country deals graphically with attacks by sharks on swimmers in Long Island, N.Y., waters. It has been doing a booming business, but an Associated Press spot check showed that thus far, the film has not kept would-be swimmers away from the beaches.

Officials in Rhode Island said there had been an upsurge in reported shark sightings, and beaches in Newport and Middletown were closed as a result of the problem. But John G. Casey, a biologist at the National Marine Fisheries Service in Narragansett said he checked and found no more sharks than usual.

"There were no indications that the number of sharks is any higher than in past years," Casey said after a week of surveying the waters about 100 miles south of Block Island.
Casey blamed the movie for the sighting reports.
"Instead of a few lifeguards looking out toward the ocean, there will be thousands of eyes looking out there after swimmers see 'Jaws,'" he said.

In contrast, police and Coast Guard officials in Hawaii, where "Jaws" opened last Friday and is attracting record crowds, said they had not noticed any increase in reports about sharks. They said a few people had been bitten over the years, but added that the last death resulting from a shark attack was over a decade ago.
Biologists and marine experts generally stressed that although shark attacks are dangerous and frightening, they are not really that frequent. A Florida scientist said only 90 shark attacks are reported around the world each year. He said that, in contrast, over 300 people in the United States alone were stung to death in one year by bees and wasps.

Two teenagers were bitten by what was described as a large fish at North Myrtle Beach, S.C., recently. A doctor at the hospital where the two were treated said he thought sharks were responsible, but other authorities noted that other fish inflict similar wounds.

Rumors of shark sightings in the area have been rampant although the movie, based on the widely-read book of the same title, has not yet opened. Officials say that none of the sightings has been confirmed. The chamber of commerce says it expects a bigger Fourth of July business than last year, when the gasoline shortage curtailed driving.

The opening of the movie in Ocean City, Md., prompted jokes about sharks, surfing and swimming, but authorities said there had been no recent shark attacks.

"I'm not interested in fantasy," said Mayor Harry Kelley. "If I've got a problem, I'm there to look at it, but I haven't got a problem."

Kelley said he has less worries about what sharks will do to business than about the impact of a city council decision to uphold a 1933 ordinance requiring anyone over 10 years old from appearing in public, west of the beach, without covering "for that portion of the body from the waist up."

Reports of shark attacks have been about normal on Florida's East Coast although there were accusations that officials were downplaying sightings. (In the movie, officials attempt to cover up shark attacks.) The mayor and chief lifeguard of Daytona Beach denied the charges.

There have been three confirmed shark bites so far this year off Florida waters. New Smyrna lifeguard captain John Christ said, "We had our worst summer last year. But it still isn't a serious problem. It's really too early to tell if they're going to be a problem this year."

Officials in coastal areas of Maine say business is up, movie or no movie. One Portland theater owner said people see the movie, then ask their companions jokingly, "You going to the beach tomorrow?"

A spokesman for the Old Orchard Beach Chamber of Commerce said he wasn't too worried about the shark sightings — "We hear reports of sightings of UFOs, but never of sharks."

'Historian' Reappointed

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Political history buff Jerry D. Roe has been reappointed to the Michigan Historical Commission by Gov. William Milliken. Roe, who is executive director of the Michigan Republican party, is historical commission president. Roe is known as an avid scavenger of political memorabilia, and weary delegates returning from conventions have found his hand out for buttons, bunting, placards and any other political leftovers. Roe is national director of the American Political Items Collectors Association and a member of the Michigan Historical Society and the Greater Lansing Historical Society.

Bridgman Lists Times Of Events For Celebration

Events July 5 will include concession booths, games and a polka dance, she said.

Most of the events will take place either at the American Legion hall and grounds or the old football field.

Gandhi's Opposition Reduced To Sputter

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's crackdown on her opponents appears to have checked their campaign for nationwide demonstrations to drive her from office.

Only scattered outbursts have been reported since the government proclaimed a state of emergency last Thursday, arrested hundreds of opponents of the prime minister and imposed censorship. A government spokesman said the country was generally calm, and there was no indication that the anti-Gandhi movement had gotten off the ground.

Before their arrest, Jayaprakash Narayan and other leading opponents had called for nationwide demonstrations Sunday which they hoped would culminate in a civil disobedience campaign patterned on those Mohandas K. Gandhi and Jawaharlal Nehru, Mrs. Gandhi's father, led against the British.

Their goal was to force the prime minister to resign because of a partially adverse ruling against her by a Supreme Court justice. The judge ruled that she could continue as prime minister while appealing her conviction for campaign law violations, but she could not vote in Parliament.

The capital had its first demonstration against Mrs. Gandhi on Sunday as hundreds of youths ran through the old part of the city, shouting slogans against her. Police used bamboo staves to quell the outburst, and arrested more than 20 of the youths.

A government spokesman also reported that "vandals" attacked property and threw stones at buses in Bihar and Gujarat states, and that there were a few other outbursts of violence.

The spokesman, Dr. A. R. Baji, said the total number under arrest was now "much larger" than the 900 previously acknowledged, but he refused to give the new total.

Baji denied reports that the chief justice of the Supreme Court, Ajit Nath Ray, had resigned. Ray was appointed by Mrs. Gandhi in April 1973. The court is to take up her appeal when it returns from vacation in mid-July.

The prime minister made a bid for popular support Sunday with the announcement of price controls on food, coal and other essentials. All dealers in controlled items were given three days to display price lists and post the amount of stocks on hand.

The Instant It Happened

FAREWELL AND GOOD HEALTH!

It seems almost a twilight of the gods as the man, old before his time, stands silently while the cheers shower down around him. It is Babe Ruth's formal farewell to baseball. Two months later, Aug. 16, 1948, he will be dead. But the thousands saying goodbye to Ruth this muggy day in Yankee stadium are saying it to an era, as well. The Golden Age of Sports.

Jack Dempsey, Bobby Jones, Paavo Nurmi, Earl Sande, Red Grange: National heroes in a time of innocence, a time before Olympians clenched their fists at their national anthem, a simpler time when reality was suspended for a worshipful glimpse of the immortals at play. It was a lazy afternoon of the nation's history, before instant replay and strikes and million-dollar contracts, and all you had to do was watch the Babe's massive shoulders coil and unwind and hope he hadn't had too many hot dogs before the game.

Sports were a game in those years between the world wars, not a road show traveling from city to city hoping to hit gold. Fans and their teams mated for life, and if the fans grew older, the players remained ageless, even in the memories of their passage.

Ruth pointing to the stands where he was to hit a home run; Dempsey standing in savage triumph over Jess Willard. Memories frozen in time and nostalgia.

And now their throats thicken from cheers and a deeper emotion as they say farewell. They retire Ruth's number that day. But something else, too, lies buried out there near home plate.

Chunky Harry Harris of the Associated Press, who has covered World War II and does not suffer from romantic illusions, is nonetheless moved on this overcast day. He stands to the side of home plate, he hears the national anthem, he looks at the slightly stooped figure, the barreled body, the spindly legs, the packed stands, and knows "I can't miss." He doesn't. And works the ball game that follows.

Artificial Leg Takes Bomb Blast

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — A home-made bomb planted in the car of 52-year-old Emanuel Garcia exploded when he turned the starter key, but he suffered only a few bumps and bruises because his artificial leg took the blast.

"If the leg hadn't been artificial, he would have been badly hurt," said Lt. J.D. Reece of the Tampa Police Department after Sunday's incident. Reece said it was not known who planted the bomb, but it apparently was a personal feud.

ENJOYING LIFE AT 101: Robert Edwards of rural Covert relaxes with his pipe at his home. Edwards, who says he will be 101 in September, does most of cooking and shopping for himself and his wife, Addie, 84. He also enjoys listening to baseball games on the radio. He and his wife moved to Covert from Chicago five years ago. (Tom Renner photo)

'SERVING GOD' KEEPS HIM YOUNG

Covert Man Recalls 101 Years

By ALAN ARENT
Staff Writer

COVERT—By his count, a Covert man will celebrate his 101st birthday Sept. 15.

Robert Edwards told this newspaper he born in St. Landra, La., in 1874, in a log house shared by his parents and two older brothers.

His parents, Van and Maria Edwards, were farmers who owned their own stock.

As a boy Edwards said he worked in the fields for his father until he was about 8 years old when he decided to leave home. He said he stayed in the South working the fields to earn a living, plus any other odd jobs that were available to a young boy.

He said he had no time to attend school as he had to work.

At the age of 24, Edwards, said he met and married his wife Addie, who is now 84. The couple has been married going on 67 years. They had three sons, one still living in Mississippi.

Edwards said he worked along the Mississippi river building levees for about 30 years. He then worked for the railroad, laying cross-ties and driving spikes for about 22 years.

After retiring from the railroad, Edwards and his family moved to Chicago, and was employed as a bottle washer for a water company and a security guard for a candy company. In 1950, he finally retired from all work. He and his wife moved to Covert from Chicago, about five years ago.

Edwards and his wife regularly attend the Tabernacle Missionary Baptist church of Covert and hold prayer meetings by themselves every Wednesday evening and Sunday at daybreak.

Edwards does most of the cooking now and still goes shopping, according to his neighbor Mrs. Viola Williams, who drives him to the store. Mrs. Williams says that Edwards "really enjoys listening to the ballgames on his radio," and smoking his pipe.

Edwards said he smoked cigarettes since he was 10, until he moved to Covert, five years ago and switched to a pipe.

When asked what he attrib-ed his longevity to, he said "Doing unto others as you would have them do unto you," and by "serving God."

Edwards said he feels his age most in his legs, but Mrs. Williams said he still gets around "pretty good for a man about to be 101 years old". His eyesight and mind are still good, she said.

Crash Kills Dowagiac Girl

ANN ARBOR — A Dowagiac girl was killed and another Dowagiac girl was injured as the result of a one-car auto accident several miles west of here Saturday night. The girls were passengers in a car which ran off a road and slammed into a tree. Two other people in the car were also injured.

Washtenaw county sheriff's deputies said that Sandra Lee Younger, 17, 305 Pennsylvania avenue, Dowagiac, was pronounced dead shortly after arrival at University of Michigan hospital, Ann Arbor. The other girl, Dana Foster, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Foster, route 3, Dowagiac, was hospitalized in St. Joseph's hospital, Ann Arbor, with a broken neck and crushed foot, according to her mother.

Driver of the auto, Michael Check, 18, of Romulus, was also hospitalized and reported in fair condition at St. Joseph's hospital, Ann Arbor. Another passenger in the auto Terry Wise, 17, of Romulus, was treated and released from St. Joseph's hospital.

Washtenaw sheriff's deputies said the auto was eastbound on North Territorial road when the driver apparently lost control and the auto ran along the shoulder of the road some 200 feet, before crossing over the centerline and traveling some 100 feet on the opposite shoulder of the road before striking a tree head-on.

The 9:28 p.m. accident remains under investigation, according to deputies.

Annual South Haven Festival Continues Through Sunday

By TOM RENNER
South Haven Correspondent

SOUTH HAVEN — Eighteen-year-old Sharon Ketcham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ketcham, 2291 Roslin road, Benton Harbor, added another jewel to her crown Saturday night as she won the National Blueberry festival queen pageant here.

Miss Ketcham, a 1974 graduate of Coloma high school, was selected from seven contestants to represent Michigan's blueberry industry during the current National Blueberry festival and at other blueberry-related events during the balance of the year.

The winner is also the reigning Berrien County Youth fair queen and was selected first runnerup in the 1974 Miss Coloma queen contest.

Miss Ketcham has brown hair and is 5 feet 4. She wore a multi-colored halter dress with empire waist and white collar which had been made by her mother for Saturday's final judging.

Miss Ketcham had been first runnerup in the pageant's talent competition Friday night. The winner was picked on the basis of talent competition, modeling of sportswear and gown, interviews with the judges and the answer to a question before the audience.

Selected first runnerup was Carla Farthing, 18, of Mattawan. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Farthing, 265 North Main street, Mattawan, Miss Farthing had won the talent competition.

Second runnerup was Deborah Lynn Oldenburg, 20, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Oldenburg, Box 291, Sawyer.

Selected Miss Congeniality by her fellow contestants was Elizabeth Maria Bazan, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nicolas Bazan, 905 St. Joseph drive, St. Joseph.

The new royalty was crowned by 1974 National Blueberry Festival queen Debra Warsco of Dowagiac. Judges were Tressia Cramer, Miss South Haven of 1973 and former National Blueberry festival queen; South Haven Mayor Elizabeth Davis; and Dr. W. James Merry, professor of botany at Northern Michigan university.

Members of the pageant committee included David Pauli, Sheryl Pero and Sandy Weiss. Director of staging was Vi Schafer. Master of ceremony was Joe Foster.

Other contestants included Jane Piersma of Holland, Cindy Unsel of Flushing and Katherine Wallie of South Haven.

The National Blueberry festival continues through next Sunday. Today until 7 p.m. the Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring its annual blueberry pancake day at the South Haven yacht club.

Games for kids will be featured Wednesday with a 2 p.m. kite flying contest at Monroe park and the Dirty Day games at 5 p.m. at Baer park.

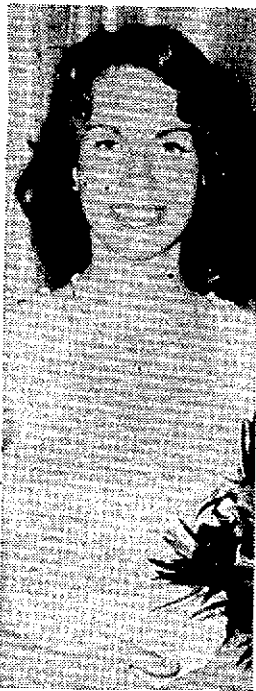

A flea market featuring booths sponsored by several South Haven area civic organizations will be held Thursday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Methodist church parking lot.

The Independence Day parade will step off from the high school parking lot at 11 a.m. Friday. Later that day the Jaycees will sponsor their annual chicken barbecue in Johnston park. South Haven firemen will fire fireworks from the beaches at dusk.

Events Saturday will include a boys baseball tournament at the Ben Suhr field, a 2 p.m. puppet show by Donald Baatjes of Grand Rapids at the Central school auditorium and a 4 p.m. pie eating contest at Ratcliffe field.

The festival will conclude Sunday with the South Haven Art League clothesline art show from 10 a.m. to dusk at Johnston park. An ice cream social sponsored by the Methodist church men's club will also be held Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m. and a sand castle and sculpture contest on the north beach beginning at 2 p.m.

Crashes Claim Twelve

By Associated Press

Twelve lives were claimed over the weekend in Michigan traffic accidents, including two double fatalities, State Police report. All but three of the victims were under 30. Authorities said Andre Lawson, 21, and Richard White, 27, both of Sault Ste. Marie, were killed Saturday in a two-car head-on collision in the Soo.

David J. Kushmerowich, 21, and Dale R. Travers, 20, both of Sterling Heights, died Sunday when their car ran off the road in Shelby Township, Macomb County, police said.

Other fatalities included: Guy Wark, 19, of Vassar, died Friday night when his car ran off a local road. Maureen Timan, 19, of Saginaw, was killed Saturday in a two-car crash on Michigan 23 in Tawas City. Ronald Oom, 9, of Rockford, died Saturday when he was struck by a truck while riding his bicycle in Algoma Township, Kent County. Mark D. Schmitzer, 18, of Flint, was killed Saturday in a rollover on Interstate 96 in Brighton Township, Livingston County. Howard L. Fissette, 68, of Marquette, died Sunday when his car ran off the road on U.S. 41 in Negaunee Township, Marquette County. Sandra Lee Younger, 17, of Dowagiac, was killed Saturday when the car she was in ran off a road and hit a tree in Webster Township, Washtenaw County. Alice Connor, 74, of Flint, died Sunday when the car she was in ran off Interstate 69 east of Charlotte. Donald D. Downard, 40, of Empire, was killed Saturday when his motorcycle ran off a road in Homestead Township, Benzie County.

Gunmen Wound Adrian Officer

ADRIAN, Mich. (AP) — An Adrian police officer was shot several times today a short time after a gasoline station in nearby Tecumseh was held up. Patrolman Bobby Williams was taken to Bixby Hospital in Adrian, and then was rushed to University Hospital in Ann Arbor where his condition was listed as critical.

Hospital personnel said he had been shot in the neck and abdomen.

City and State Police theorized Williams was shot after he halted the auto in which the gas station robbers were riding. The officer was found lying on a roadside.

First reports indicated two men and a woman were in the car used by the trio which held up the gas station and abducted the attendant. He was released in Adrian a short time later, police said.

The Lenawee County Sheriffs department reported the three persons wanted in connection with the shooting were apprehended this morning near Adrian. No other details were released.

Two Held In Canada Kidnaping

SHERBROOKE, Que. (AP) — Two men are being held for the kidnaping of the wife of a wealthy margarine manufacturer.

Police raided a farmhouse near Sherbrooke on Sunday, rescued 63-year-old Lina Blanchet and arrested the two men. The police said they put up no resistance.

The kidnapers originally demanded $1 million in $20 bills.

WATERVLIET — Watervliet township residents will be asked to approve a property tax levy to raise funds for operating an ambulance service in the township.

Township Supervisor Lyle Woodworth said procedures for setting up the levy vote for sometime in September would start today. The exact amount of millage needed will not be determined until other avenues of paying for the service have been explored, Woodworth added.

The move toward a vote to pay for the township's share for operating a jointly run ambulance service with the city of Watervliet came during a special meeting of the board Saturday morning after the board approved a three-year contract with the Southwestern Michigan Emergency Ambulance service for operating and maintaining the service for township residents. The township will participate in the service for the next six months from its own sources of revenue. If the millage levy were to be defeated, the township would terminate the contract, according to the supervisor.

Similar action was taken by the Watervliet city commission during a special meeting Friday night.

The city-township ambulance service began its operations this morning at 9 a.m. Watervliet City Commissioner Albert Steffens, chairman pro-tem of the jointly operated ambulance committee, said the 24-hour service would operate out of the city hall. The telephone number for the service is 463-3118, he added.

The service will not make transfers, but respond to emergency calls only, for the present time, Steffens said.

The service is a non-profit corporation and will have two registered medical technicians on duty each day. Costs for an emergency call has been set at $40 for area residents.

Action by the municipalities came after a local funeral director had announced that he would terminate his ambulance service today.

The cost for operating the service has been set at $63,662.

for the first year, and will be shared equally by the city and township. The costs to the governmental units may be reduced should the Bainbridge township board decide to join the service, Woodworth said.

Woodworth said the township would be able to maintain the operation of the ambulance service for six months, using $5,000 from federal revenue sharing funds and some monies from $40,000 time certificates, which had been earmarked for capital improvements.

Ferry System Will Get Priority

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP) — A vital cross-lake car ferry system will have top billing if the legislature approves a $175 million revenue bonding program, Gov. William Milliken said over the weekend.

He said $2.4 million in revenue bond proceeds is earmarked for cross-lake ferry capital improvements. He proposed that another $900,000 Michigan share from the half cent a gallon gasoline tax be allocated in 1975-76 to secure $2.5 million in federal and Wisconsin aid for six months' worth of operating costs.

Cross-lake ferries also would benefit from a share of $31 million available for freight roadbed and facility improvements in the revenue bond program.

"These rail and auto-carrying ferries are a vital commercial link for the Upper Great Lakes region," Milliken said in connection with his visit to the Seaway Festival in Muskegon.

He said Michigan must invest in modern port and freight facilities, rebuild rail lines and acquire advanced-design vessels able to cut substantially the time of a lake crossing.

"We must also be prepared to support ferry operations until they can be restored to an economically viable condition," Milliken said.

Back in January when the new Congress burst into Washington full of new, young liberal enthusiasts, I had one of my unhappy premonitions. I was I noted here, it reminded me too much of the huge majority that was swept into Congress with Franklin D. Roosevelt's 1936 landslide. A majority which promptly fell apart at the seams because, given its size, nobody felt any need for discipline. The Republicans, as now, deliberately laid low and chortled at "Old Whiskers" (as F.D.R. called Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes) gave the President the worst licking of his political career over the so-called "Court-Packing" proposal. Before it was over, there was blood on the floors of Congress — all of it Democratic.

Now Speaker of the House Carl Albert has publicly thrown in the sponge. The allegedly "veto-proof" House has made Gerald Ford look like a strong President, and everywhere you look Democrats are carving up their fellows. The freshman Representatives have allegedly called on Albert to resign — I say allegedly because nobody knows how many of the 75 new faces actually joined in the appeal.

In a curious way, the very success of the Caucus in deposing some committee chairmen at the beginning of the session contributed to its decline. Flushed with visions of grandeur, it then moved on to try to establish a disguised form of parliamentary government by arguing that the Caucus could tell Democrats on various committees what legislation to support or oppose. At this point, those Democrats who had joyfully joined in bouncing some seniors from their chairmanships were already locked into the traditional system: "Nobody can tell the Ways and Means, or Appropriations, or Committee what to do!"

It's easy to blame Speaker Albert, who is one of the nicest men in town and incapable of a vengeful act. (If a Representative got mean with Sam Rayburn, he would suddenly find his office had been shifted — to a broom closet.) Albert just doesn't play rough and in my judgment should not be considered the scapegoat — as the old saying goes, "Don't shoot the piano player, boys, he's doing his best." What has to be kept in mind is that the Democrats in the House are suffering from a self-inflicted wound: in their effort to end arbitrary procedures, they virtually destroyed the sense of discipline.

The other day, for example, I got a letter from Congressman Paul Simon, a most talented freshman Representative from Illinois, which in part bemoaned the fact that most Congressmen don't have enough facts to vote intelligently on issues. They are just supposed to go in and find out from the Whip how to vote. With all respect to Simon, this is the very basis of party discipline. Obviously it is impossible for every member to know everything about every issue. Hence the division of labor among functional committees whose recommendations have in the past been almost routinely accepted by the House as a whole.

The problem in this Congress has been exaggerated by the number of new faces. Power in Congress is a function of knowledge and a willingness to work. Senator Henry M. Jackson, for example, is a dominating figure on the Appropriations Committee because he knows how to read a budget, even a Pentagon budget, and take it apart inch by inch. Wilbur Mills dominated the House Ways and Means Committee for years before his illness not because he carried a pistol in his pocket, but because he knew more about taxation than any other 15 Representatives put together. And was prepared to work twice as hard as most of his peers. If Lyndon Johnson were now Senate Majority Leader, for example, the Wyman-Durkin controversy over the New Hampshire Senate seat would have been settled two months ago. And to repeat, Johnson couldn't have exercised the power he did in the 1960s unless Senate Democrats accepted discipline; his authority was a function of his brains and his willingness to work a 72-hour day.

Right now there are simply too many unseasoned newcomers who have yet to work out a pecking order. In short, if every man is a leader, there can be no leadership.

Good Viewing In Early Evening Milky Way Dominates Night Sky

ANN ARBOR — "A starry path, a glistening river, a heavenly snake — these are some of the colorful names ancient people gave the Milky Way, which will dominate the night skies of July," says University of Michigan astronomer Hazel M. Losh.

"Rising almost parallel to the eastern horizon, the broad, hazy arch will climb higher and higher as the night — and the summer — progress," she continues.

Noting that it comes into good view in the early evening hours, the U-M professor says that, to the unaided eye, the Milky Way appears as a soft, misty band.

"Indeed, it's easy to understand why people imagined it to be some kind of continuous pathway," she says. "However, only slight optical assistance, such as binoculars and telescopes, reveal its true composition: myriads of faint stars, nebulae, star clouds, and dark dust clouds."

The Milky Way is now believed to be the projection of our galaxy. Even if all "naked eye" stars were somehow blotted out, she observes, it would still shine practically unchanged upon a dark blank sphere.

Prof. Losh points out that the Milky Way is unusually bright in summer because Earth is located roughly two-thirds of the way between the center and the edge of the galaxy.

"In the summer night sky, then, we are looking toward the farther border of the galaxy — and therefore through a greater of stars than in winter," she explains.

Projected against the Milky

Way are many famous constellations, including Cassiopeia and the Northern Cross in the north, Scorpius and Sagittarius in the south, and Aquila in the east, the U-M astronomer says.

"Not so well known are Sagitta and Delphinus, two small constellations lying about halfway between Cygnus and Aquila," she goes on. "Sagitta bears a strong resemblance to an arrow, for which it was named. Farther east and forming a triangle with Sagitta and Altair, the bright star of Aquila, is Delphinus, the Dolphin."

A diamond-shaped figure composed of faint stars, Delphinus was recognized in ancient times and for "unknown reasons" dubbed "Job's Coffin," she says.

By following the eastern stream of the Milky Way toward the southeastern horizon, she goes on, one comes to Sagittarius, the Archer, "one of the finest summer figures."

"With his bow outstretched, the Archer is aiming a shaft at the flaming red heart of Scorpius, the star Antares," she notes. She adds that Sagittarius has the distinction of being in two great celestial circles: the Milky Way and the zodiac.

Turning to planets dominant during July, Prof. Losh says Venus, which will reach its greatest brilliancy on the 21st, will continue as the bright "evening star" in the western sky. On July 12 an especially pretty configuration will result when Venus is just five degrees north of the waxing crescent moon.

Saturn disappears behind the sun on the 15th, thereafter reappearing as a morning planet. Rising around 1:30 a.m., Mars will move from Pisces at the beginning of the month to just west of the Pleiades by the end. Jupiter rises a few minutes before and to the right of Mars during the first part of July, but by month's end will be rising more than an hour earlier.

Elusive Mercury may be seen as a morning planet on the 4th, rising about an hour before the sun. On that date it will reach its greatest angular distance from the sun, and thus may be spotted with less difficulty than usual.

Holiday Slaying Forecast

NEW YORK (AP) — During the Fourth of July weekend, 248 Americans including two policemen on duty, will be shot to death, according to predictions of the National Council on Crime and Delinquency.

From data compiled from the FBI, the National Rifle Association and various other agencies, the council also predicted that 106 of the gun deaths will be suicides and nearly half the homicides will occur in the South.

Some 1,400 persons will be victims of self-inflicted injuries and other types of gun accidents, the council said, adding that most of these will be males in the 20-29 age group.

In its projections released Sunday, the council broke down the 248 deaths this way:

—117 will be homicides.
—106 will be suicides.
—23 will be accidental.
—2 will be police officers killed in the line of duty.

BICENTENNIAL COINS: Here are front and back (obverse and reverse) of United States coins which will be issued by the Mint for general circulation in celebration of the nation's 200th birthday. Changes are in the back, or reverse, of the coins. These are perfect proof coins. Kennedy half-dollar will be released July 7, 1975 with the other two due for release by December 1975.

DETROIT, GRAND RAPIDS, KAZOO Freedom Train In Michigan

SouthWestern Michigan residents will have a chance to see the American Freedom Train when it visits Grand Rapids on July 11 and Kalamazoo on July 14, according to the Historical Society of Michigan "Newsletter."

The 25-car steam-powered train displaying some of the nation's most treasured documents and artifacts, is making three scheduled stops in Michigan this summer. The train is currently on display in Detroit through July 7, at the Penn Central station.

From Detroit, the train will travel west across the state stopping in Grand Rapids on July 11, and Kalamazoo on July 14.

During the train's 17,000 mile tour of 75 cities throughout the country in 1975-78, it is estimated that more than 40 million people will view the traveling showcase commemorating the nation's 200-year history.

According to the historical society, 12 of the train's 25 cars contain artifacts and material devoted to a specific theme such as the origins of our nation, sports, fine arts, performing arts, innovations, professions, exploration and conflict and resolution.

The train's dramatic tableaux displays in 10 of the cars are viewable from inside the train on a moving walkway which travels at the rate of 36 feet per minute, thereby accommodating 1,800 people per hour. Each visitor will carry a transistorized sound unit which plays a narration explaining the various exhibits.

The other two display cars are glass-enclosed to permit inspection from the outside.

Some of the historical documents and memorabilia exhibited on the freedom train include Revolutionary War muskets, George Washington's copy of the Constitution, a 1904 Oldsmobile, moon rocks, and Hank Aaron's baseball bat.

The American Freedom Train Foundation, Inc., is a non-profit, privately sponsored organization. An admission charge of $2 for adults, and $1 for senior citizens and youths, under the age of 18, is charged in order to meet the project's operating expenses which include insurance premiums on the priceless exhibits, maintenance of proper humidity and temperature conditions for documents and artifacts, and security.

Four major corporations, General Motors, Prudential Insurance Company of America, Pepsi-Cola company, and Kraftco Foods, are sponsoring the train with each donating $1 million to get the project on the track.

Complaints Keep U.S. Agency Busy

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Justice Department official says his agency concentrates its enforcement of a 1968 anti-wiretapping law on persons who intercept telephone conversations for business reasons.

But James Reynolds, an attorney for the department's criminal division said about 75 per cent of the wiretapping complaints received arise not from business use but from marital disputes.

"GROCERY CARTS"

Several years ago, in an eastern city, a grocery store owner received a telephone call that had him blinking in disbelief... and also solved a mystery.

The mystery had to do with his grocery carts, which had been disappearing at an alarming rate. And the telephone call was from one of his "sweet little old lady" customers. She wondered if he could send somebody over to pick up all those grocery carts in her garage.

It seems that, having no car, she had pushed her groceries home each day in the carts, and parked the carts in her garage. Now she was calling because her garage was full!

Well, that grocer was a lot luckier than another I know of, whose store was located just across a river from a big apartment complex. A lot of his customers had crossed the bridge on foot to stop at his store, pushed their groceries back across the bridge in his carts, and then... instead of bothering to return the carts... simply shoved them into the river!

When he finally caught on, the grocer hired a scuba diver to check the river. And the diver... so help me... found over eight hundred carts!

All of this might be funny, if it weren't so tragic. For those grocery carts cost nearly fifty dollars each. And when you consider that the average grocer works for a net profit of just a fraction over one percent, you realize that he has to find up nearly five thousand dollars in sales to cover the loss of one cart.

So, in a spirit of fair play, I promise you that Schneck's will always offer you the best food values possible. And I cordially invite you to help yourself to the savings. But please, not my grocery carts!

HUGE FORTUNE WAITING

Young Getty's Day Coming

Q: What happened to J. Paul Getty III who was kidnapped and lost an ear two years ago in Italy? — P.L., Ogden, Utah.

A: Nineteen-year-old Paul, son of the billionaire, is living happily in California with wife, Martine, and their four-month-old son, Paul Balthazar Getty. The proud father can look forward to a huge inheritance some day but for now he has to get along on his paycheck from the Getty Oil Company plus a small stipend from his estate. The courts declared him incompetent to handle his own finances and gave relatives control of the really big money until Paul III grows up.

tion is just ludicrous." Joan's a little turned off of men lately. She has also stated, "I'd rather kill myself than remarry anyone."

Q: What does Cher do when the TV season is over? — H.S., Myrtle Beach, S.C.

A: We understand that she and daughter Chastity have recently taken off for parts unknown. A candle tipped over in Cher's bedroom and caused quite a fire. She took this as a sign that she ought to get out of Hollywood for a while and seek a place with less threatening

Q: Do the beauties still go topless at St. Tropez on the French Riviera? — F.Z., Bakersfield, Calif.

A: The fashionable girls at St. Tropez don't wear anything at all these days. The "shy" ones go topless. Nudity is actually against the law but the French cops are refusing to enforce the ban, complaining that they feel ridiculous walking naked ladies to the police station.

Q: What do you think about the new book "Hollywood Babylon"? It seems full of scandal to me. Also, wasn't it around before? — W.R., Boston, Mass.

A: The Kenneth Anger classic on Hollywood has just been brought out in a complete edition with never - before - seen pictures. It's true there was a pirated version around some years ago. Anger is suing over that. Yes, "Hollywood Babylon" is full of scandal. Anger repeats Hollywood's lurid histories and tells a lot of tales out of school. Fascinating book, to be taken with a grain of salt.

Q: When is Ali MacGraw going to do another picture? — T.A., Boise, Idaho.

A: Husband Steve McQueen doesn't want her to do a film without him and they haven't come up with a script that suits them both. We also hear that college-educated Ali is having some trouble adapting to married life with McQueen, who tends to be something of a taciturn "jock." The word is that she is seeking professional help to solve her problems.

Reds' 14th Straight Errorless Game Record

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
It's getting so you need a memory course to remember when the Cincinnati Reds last made an error, or the Los Angeles Dodgers last won a game. The Reds set a major league record of 14 consecutive errorless games by splitting Sunday's doubleheader with the San Diego Padres, winning the opener 4-1, then losing 4-3.

Meanwhile, the Dodgers' losing streak reached five in a row when they dropped the finale of a four-game series to San Francisco 5-2, giving the Giants their first four-game sweep over anyone since June, 1964. The setback also pushed Los Angeles seven games behind first-place Cincinnati in the National League West.

The last Cincinnati error came on June 14 when catcher Johnny Bench made a wild throw in Chicago — 136 innings ago. The old mark of 12 errorless games was set by the Detroit Tigers in 1963.

"The defense has made me," said pitcher Jack Billingham, who won his sixth straight in the opener with last-out help from Will McEnaney and home runs by George Foster, Joe Morgan and Merv Rettenmund. "I'm a sinkerball pitcher and I just try to make them hit the ball on the ground."

However, the Reds had their six-game winning streak broken in the nightcap when San Diego's Brent Strom scattered seven hits for his third straight complete game victory.

Ex-Red Gene Locklear belted a two-run double in the second inning while Foster hit a two-run homer for Cincinnati in the eighth, his third in as many games.

Meanwhile, San Francisco's Tom Bradley pitched seven shutout innings for his first victory of the season. He needed relief from Randy Moffitt in the eighth, when Dave Lopes tagged hit a two-run homer. Moffitt retired all five batters he faced in recording his third straight save.

The Giants also handed Los Angeles' Don Sutton his third loss in a row. Derrel Thomas drove in two runs with a single and homer while Dave Rader and Gary Thomasson had RBI singles.

Elsewhere, the Pittsburgh Pirates won a doubleheader from the Chicago Cubs 4-3 and 7-0, the Philadelphia Phillies swept the New York Mets 9-6 and 4-3 in 12 innings, the Montreal Expos beat the St. Louis Cardinals 7-3 and the Atlanta Braves turned back the Houston Astros 3-1.

The Pirates won the opener on Al Oliver's two-run homer off Rick Reuschel with two out in the ninth inning.

Then, Jerry Reuss hurled an eight-hitter and Willie Stargell hit a two-run homer in the nightcap. Stargell's homer gave him a career total of 359 and moved him into 25th place on the all-time list.

The Pirates beat ex-farmhand Tom Deltore in the second game. Oliver drove in a first-inning run with a sacrifice fly and Frank Traveras scored in the third and fifth after opening each inning with a single.

The Pirates, keyed by Richie Zisk's two-run single and Stargell's two-run homer, broke the game open with four unearned runs in the seventh off Eddie Solomon.

In the opener, Chicago took a 3-2 lead in the seventh inning on Don Kessinger's two-run double off Bruce Kison. The double scored Vic Harris and Reuschel, who had both singled. The 240-pound Reuschel lumbered home all the way from first when Richie Zisk bobbled the ball in the left field corner.

In the Pirates' ninth, pinch hitter Bill Robinson singled, took second on a sacrifice and scored on Oliver's line drive homer over the right field wall, his seventh of the season.

Richie Hebner drove in Pittsburgh's first two runs with a first-inning single and a fourth-inning homer, his 11th. Manny Trillo's sacrifice fly followed singles by Rick Monday and Pete LaCock to give Chicago a 1-1 tie in the second inning.

Major league home run leader Greg Luzinski smashed his 19th in the 12th inning — and his 11th June homer — to win the nightcap for Tug McGraw, one-time Mets' relief ace, who also worked three perfect innings to save the opener. McGraw retired 12 of the 13 batters he faced in the nightcap, yielding one infield single. Ollie Brown homered for the Phils in the first game while Jay Johnstone connected in the nightcap.

Barry Foote and Nate Colbert hit consecutive homers in Montreal's four-run eighth inning. Foote's was a two-run shot and put the Expos on top 4-3. Colbert then snapped an 0-for-18 slump with his first homer since returning to the National League two weeks ago.

Carl Morton and Max Leon combined on an eight-hitter and Larvell Blanks doubled home a pair of fourth-inning runs and scored on a single by Rowland Office.

Out-Front Johnson Seeking Exemption

Lightning-Jolted Heard After Western Title

OAK BROOK, Ill. (AP) — George Johnson was just looking for an exemption and lightning-jolted Jerry Heard, fresh out of a hospital bed, was looking for the title going into today's weather-delayed, double-round, 36-hole windup to the $200,000 Western Open Golf Tournament.

But if conditions aren't right, Heard won't challenge.

"If I get tired in the first 18 holes, I won't play the second 18," Heard said Sunday after his gutsy 74 had put him within five strokes of the lead.

"And," he continued with a smile, "if there's a cloud in the sky, if it's just the tiniest little bit cloudy, I probably won't even hit it off the first tee."

Heard, Lee Trevino and Bobby Nichols were struck by lightning Friday in a violent thunderstorm that swept over the 7,002-yard Butler National Golf Club course. All were hospitalized for treatment and observation and were released Sunday morning just before the delayed second round.

Trevino, the hardest hit of the three, and Nichols headed home immediately. Heard went to the tee.

"We're all okay," Heard said. "But the doctor told us that if we weren't young, strong men in good condition, it could have killed us."

Heard suffered burns on the inside of his legs.

"I'll be walking like John Wayne for a few days, but other than that I'm fine," he said.

He said he chose to play because "the course is so tough, the scores are so high and I had a pretty good first round (a 69) and I thought I'd take advantage of the opportunity."

Johnson, a 34-year-old veteran of seven years on the tour said he wasn't excited after a brilliant, five-under-par 66 had given him a one-stroke advantage after 36 holes of play.

Russian Hockey Standout Convincing Detroit Phony

DETROIT (AP) — A dashing foreigner with a flare for a beret, flowing cravat and velvet jacket has been having a big time in Detroit recently by passing himself off as Soviet hockey star Vladislav Tretiak.

To the dismay of those who have wine and dined the imposter, the real Tretiak hasn't been in the country at all.

The phony has been making many new friends for more than a month with tales of supposed secret negotiations to join the Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League.

A stockbroker said he put the bogus Tretiak up in his suburban Birmingham home all last week.

"I hope he isn't a phony," said the man, who asked that his name be withheld. "He's so charming and believable."

He said the house guest supposedly was going to consult with Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., and attorney F. Lee Bailey about signing with the Wings.

But Javits' staff denied that the senator sponsored Tretiak's immigration and said the goal tender hasn't even been in the United States.

The office of Red Wing General Manager Alex Delvecchio said no negotiations have taken place with Tretiak although the Wings did put him on their tentative negotiations list last year after his brilliant performance in the Team Canada-Russia series.

The Birmingham family entertained the fake Tretiak after the stockbroker's son ran into him at a restaurant.

"We were the ones who suggested he stay with us and give up the room he said he had at the Hotel Sheraton-Cadillac," the stockbroker said.

But no Vladislav Tretiak has been registered at the downtown hotel, though several other people report encounters with him.

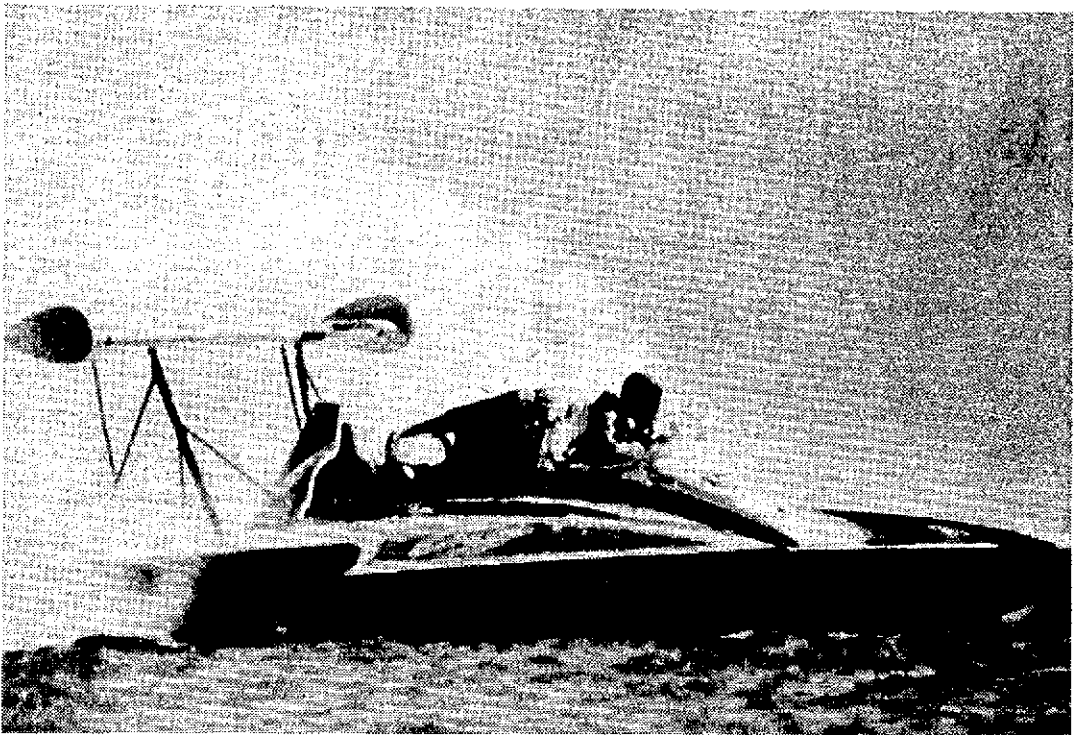

One said he met the stranger in the lobby of the Pontchartrain Hotel and wound up spending about $50 on him at dinner.

Leo Ellison, president of the Greektown Businessman's Association, said the imposter was seen often for a while in Greektown nightspots.

"I don't regret having bought him something to eat and drink," Ellison said. "He was wonderful to hear. He was right out of a story book."

Like the real Tretiak, the phony is described as tall and in his 20s. But people who met the imposter said he didn't look anything like the picture they were shown of the real hockey star.

"That's sure not the Tretiak I talked to and treated to some drinks," said one man who was shown a picture of the Russian. "This guy is better looking. But I bet he can't talk as good."

Ali 3-1 Favorite Over Bugner

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Defending heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali and British challenger Joe Bugner today completed training for their outdoor title match.

Bugner shadow boxed and skipped rope at Negara Stadium and declared himself "fit and strong ... I shall give a very good show tomorrow."

Bugner said he weighed 226 pounds today and that he expected to shed about 14 pounds in the humid heat against Ali Tuesday. The fight starts about 9:30 a.m. local time and, thanks to the international date line, will be seen on closed circuit theater television in North America in prime time Monday evening.

It's the first heavyweight title fight in this part of the world. Ali vs. Bugner is to be screened as one-third of a championship triple bill involving light heavyweight champion Victor Galindez against challenger Jorge Ahumada and middleweight titleholder Carlos Monzon against Tony Licata. The latter two fights are being held in Madison Square Garden.

Ali was rated a 3-1 favorite by oddsmakers in his 16th title fight. At 33, he's eight years older than the European heavyweight champion.

The champion collects $2 million dollars for his efforts. Bugner gets $500,000.

A bonoh — Malaysian witchdoctor — has been assigned to assure clear skies. Weather forecasters do not expect rain. The temperature was expected to be in the 80s.

A crowd of about 15,000 was expected to attend the contest in Merdeka Stadium, which holds some 38,000. The bout was to be on home TV in Malaysia.

Security precautions were strict. Police combed the stadium today for bombs. Ali and Bugner have large contingents of bodyguards.

Bugner said he expected Ali to start fast.

"The first few rounds should really be hot ... Ali will almost certainly try to dominate things."

Ali has declined to pick a round in which he would attempt to knock out the challenger. Bugner lost a 15-round decision to Ali in Las Vegas, Nev., in February 1973. In that fight, Ali predicted that he would put Bugner away in round seven.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Don "Big Daddy" Garlits, who makes a living by running in fast company, zipped to another drag racing title Sunday.

The Seffner, Fla., dragstrip veteran uncorked a 6.09-second clocking — or 238.72 mph for the quarter mile — to win the Top Fuel Eliminator title at the National Hot Rod Association's world championship points meet.

Garlits outdueled Ted Wolfe of Pittsburgh, Pa., who posted a 6.32 clocking for a speed of 227.84 mph.

Houk Conciliating Request Rebuffed

BALTIMORE (AP) — Detroit Tiger Manager Ralph Houk has offered to meet with a reporter he allegedly roughed up Friday night because of a story which appeared in the Baltimore Evening Sun.

However, the sportswriter, Phil Hersh, said he has no intention of meeting with Houk and will proceed with an assault complaint he filed following the incident which resulted in Houk's arrest Saturday.

Houk, in his first statement since the incident, denied ever telling Hersh that he "had given up on the Detroit Tigers for 1975" as was reported.

"I became incensed because I never made such a statement, nor have I ever given up on the Tigers or any other team that I have managed," he said, adding he is willing to meet with Hersh to "reconcile our differences."

Hersh charged in an assault complaint filed with the Baltimore City Police that Houk struck him several times about the face Friday evening before the Tigers-Orioles game after the Detroit manager had called him over to the Tigers' dugout to discuss Hersh's article.

Houk turned himself over to police Saturday morning. He was arraigned on the charge, released without bond and ordered to appear Sept. 24 in Baltimore to answer the charge. The date coincides with the next time the Tigers visit the Orioles.

Hot Kaat Gives Sox Eighth Consecutive Win

Ryan False Alarm Against Burning A's

From Associated Press
The California Angels tried to light fire with fire. Only Nolan Ryan, their fireballing righthander, turned out to be more of a false alarm.

"When you have a power pitcher out there without much power, you don't have much going for you," a dejected Ryan said Sunday after losing to the red-hot A's 7-1.

Slowed by a lingering groin injury that has sidelined him since June 18, Ryan's express turned into a bogged-down local as the A's took advantage of the change in pace for their eighth straight victory.

"I slowed everything down because I couldn't get any thrust off my right leg," Ryan said after pitching 6 2-3 rocky innings, in which he surrendered nine hits and four runs.

A's starter Ken Holtzman, 87, and Rolfe Fingers collaborated on a two-hitter, the only mistakes being first-inning doubles to Tommy Harper and Lee Stanton.

Claude Washington provided the offensive support for the A's with four RBI on a sacrifice fly, a two-run single and a run-producing ground out. Joe Rudi contributed a two-run triple.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Boston Red Sox edged the New York Yankees 3-2; the Chicago White Sox trimmed the Kansas City Royals 3-1; the Baltimore Orioles shaded the Detroit Tigers 2-1; the Milwaukee Brewers nipped the Cleveland Indians 4-3, and the Texas Rangers pounded the Minnesota Twins 9-1.

Boston leapfrogged over the Yankees back into first place in the AL East, beating Catfish Hunter on eighth-inning doubles by Bernie Carbo and Rick Burleson.

With one out, Carbo lined a double to right-center and Burleson chased him home with a ground-rule double down the

That run snapped a 2-2 tie and gave the Red Sox three victories in the weekend's four-game series with the Yankees, who now trail the division leaders by one-half game.

Rogelio Moret, 5-0, making his first start of the season, stopped the Yankees on six hits.

Chicago's Jim Kaat, rolling along to his 12th victory in 16 decisions, needed seventh-inning relief help and Bill Melton's two-run homer to beat the Royals.

The 36-year-old Kaat, a 21-game winner last season, entered the seventh with a two-hitter but gave up a single and a walk. Reliever Rich Gossage surrendered an RBI single to Harmon Killebrew and a walk to Jim Wohlford before Dave Hamilton came in to quash the rally.

Bucky Dent opened the Chicago third with a double and Melton followed with his sixth homer of the season, sending Paul Splittorff to his sixth loss in seven decisions.

It was Splittorff's first appearance against the Sox this season after chalking up a 9-1 record against Chicago the past two seasons.

Tigers, Tribe Open Battle Of Basement

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Detroit Tigers, falling ever deeper into last place, take on the Cleveland Indians today in the battle for the American League East cellar.

The Tigers, 2-1 losers to the Baltimore Orioles on Sunday, are dug into last place, 13 games behind division leader Boston and 2 1/2 behind Cleveland, which hosts the Bengals for a three-game series, including a two-night doubleheader today.

Sunday's loss, coming despite Ray Bare's four-hitter, was the Tigers' third in a row, ninth in the last 10 games and 19th in 23 games. The Tigers have won just four times in the last three weeks and are 18 games under .500.

But while the Tigers were continuing their losing ways, Oriole utility infielder Tim Nordbrook proved to be an unexpected winner.

Nordbrook had just taken his second shower of the day, and settled down on the bench to watch the game, when starting second baseman Bobby Grich was ejected in the first inning for brushing umpire Richard Garcia during an argument.

When the Tigers came to bat in the second, Nordbrook took to the field with his trusty glove and an .033 batting average.

Before the game ended, he had rapped out his second hit of the season and scored the winning run after drawing a walk in the eighth. He was also sweating profusely, and ready for shower workout.

Nordbrook took another shower. "In case I got into the game later," he explained, "I wanted to feel awake."

Batting with two outs and no one on base, Nordbrook was ordered to take pitches until he was thrown a strike. But the first four deliveries from Bare were off target, and Nordbrook went to first base.

Following the walk to Bumbry, May came through with his clutch single and raised his team leading runs batted in total to 47.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — It took a more flamboyant teammate to explain why reserved, easy-going Jay Haas is college golf's 1975 national champion.

"Jay always has been a good player. He just hasn't won anything. Now he has a title to put behind his name," said Haas' Wake Forest teammate, Curtis Strange, winner of the same honor a year ago.

Haas contends the individual National Collegiate Athletic Association title wasn't on his mind until the final holes Saturday at Ohio State. Then he bore down and won with a final 70 for a 72-hole total of 282, a scant one-stroke margin over Alabama's Jerry Pate. Strange was another shot back at 284.

"Jesse Haddock, our coach, says if you play for the team, the individual honors will take care of themselves," said Haas, a 21-year-old junior from Belleville, Ill.

"Our team spirit is unbelievable. The last few holes I knew we had the team title locked, so I worked on the individual thing," said Haas, who clinched the championship with

Plangger's Ousted In Tournament

MISHAWAKA — Plangger's lost to Flint American United Life 1-0 and Lansing Cedar Lounge 6-5 while being eliminated from the eight-team Mishawaka Invitational here Saturday.

A second-inning homer by Flint's Claude Overly spoiled an overall five-hit pitching effort by Rich Plangger in the first game. Plangger's had six hits, including two singles by Ron Mandarino and a double by Darrell Karnos.

Plangger's blew a 4-0 lead against Lansing, with Rich Plangger taking the loss in relief of starter George Luther. Plangger took over in the fifth when Lansing scored three times for a 6-4 lead.

Both teams had seven hits, with Plangger's including a double, a single and two RBIs by Nick Shushman and a double and a single by Rick Davis.

Plangger's, which won its tourney opener Friday night over a Kokomo squad 4-0, is now 14-20 on the season.

Schalon Duo 'Point' Kings

BY PAUL MORGAN
Staff Sports Writer

If Ed Schalon decides to play in next year's Point O' Woods Invitational, they may have to give him a few penalty shots so someone else will have a chance to win the best ball tourney.

Schalon, with partner Ray Steffen of Kalamazoo, won his fifth title, beating the team of Dick Marzke and Bill Yates 3 and 1 Saturday in the 18th annual event.

Marzke and Yates showed they weren't impressed with Schalon's winning record by going one up on the second hole. Marzke put his second shot 45-feet away from the pin and then holed it with a dead-center putt.

The Steffen-Schalon team got the stroke back on the next hole when Marzke and Yates both went way to the right with their second shots while both Steffen and Schalon were on the green in two on the par five hole. Both missed eagle putts but did hole out for birdies and Marzke-Yates had to settle for pars.

Number three turned out to be the start of Marzke's second-shot troubles. "I'd hit the fairway on my first shot but my second shot would go right on me just about every time," he said.

On the par three, fourth hole, Schalon made one of the more spectacular pars of the day. His first shot went behind a tree just to the right of the green and it looked like there was no chance to get even close to the pin with his second shot.

So Schalon hit a chip shot towards a small hill that was at the back of the green. The ball hit half-way up the hill and rolled back to within 20-feet of the cup. Meanwhile Steffen was having trouble with his putter and already had taken a bogey so it was up to Schalon to hole it out to save a stroke, and he did.

On the sixth hole, Schalon and Steffen went ahead for the first time in the match play tourney. Marzke hit his second shot out of bounds while his partner didn't have much luck either, hitting to the left of the green. Both Steffen and Schalon played perfect shots to the green and got a par while Yates had to settle for a bogey as his 30-foot putt just missed.

Marzke and Yates missed a chance on seven to even the match up as both had relatively short putts and missed them for bogeys. Steffen-Schalon also took a bogey on the hole.

Schalon and Steffen went two up on the tenth hole, but not without a fight. Schalon, who Steffen called "Mr. Consistency," and his partner played the hole perfectly and got their par. After Marzke's chip shot from off the green missed the par, Yates had to hole out a 25-footer to save the hole. But the ball rimmed the cup and came out.

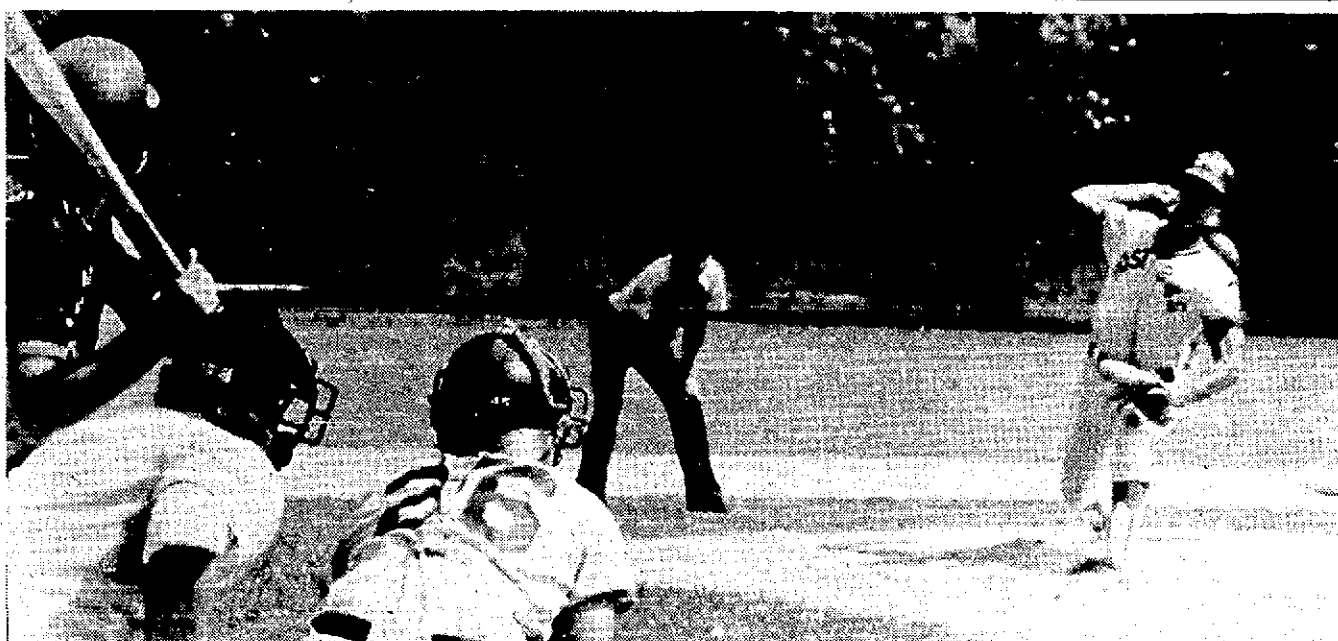

Now that they were two up, Schalon felt they could take just a few more chances than they normally would. "You can swing a little looser when your two up with eight holes to play," he said.

The back breaker turned out to be number 12 for Marzke and Yates when they double bogied it to go three down.

Schalon and Steffen lost a stroke on number 16 when Yates holed a 20-foot putt but they got the clincher on 17 when an eight-foot putt by Yates slid by the right side of the cup, giving them a bogey.

The medal-play winners in the championship light were G. Bruce Laing and Jim Evashevski with a three round total of 222. Second was Dr. Ron Grow and Stan Gebu with a 223 and third was Len Capozio and Steve Eckert with a 224.

First flight winners were Bill Zick and Bill Diedrich. They beat John Steimle and Marty Kleva, 3 and 1.

Lakeshore Great Lakes Champion

By JERRY DYKSTRA
Staff Sports Writer

The "foreign" legion no longer has sole ownership of the Great Lakes Invitational baseball trophy.

Lakeshore Legion Post 345 saw to that Sunday afternoon with a 6-0 licking of LaPorte (Ind.) in the tournament championship contest at hot Riverview field.

Outside invaders had won the four previous Great Lakes titles.

But Lakeshore combined some timely hitting, perfect defense and the pitching slants of Steve Rennhack to upset the highly-regarded Hoosier squad, now 10-2 on the season. The victory for Lakeshore, now 8-2, also averaged 3-0 and 15-3 poundings at the hands of LaPorte last weekend on Indiana soil.

"You're not kidding we were out to beat them after what happened last weekend," remarked Lakeshore coach Chuck Trapp. "It's really pleasing to come back like this."

"Also, of course, it's the first time a home team has won the trophy...we're glad about that."

Lakeshore, which advanced to the finals with a 5-2 win over St. Joe Mack Saturday and a tight 2-1 triumph over St. Joe Legion earlier Sunday, was outlived 7-6 by LaPorte. But Lakeshore more than made up that statistical deficit with some excellent all-around efforts.

Rennhack, a slender right-hander who refused to wilt under a blazing sun, produced a solid job on the mound in the nine-inning affair. He scattered seven singles, walked three and fanned three and was tough in the clutch in the fifth, sixth and seventh innings when LaPorte batted six hits but left seven runners stranded.

Rennhack, the former River Valley ace, is now 4-0 for the season (including a no-hitter) and has allowed just one earned run in 28 innings. He also is the leading Lakeshore hitter with a .455 average and topped Lakeshore batters in the three weekend games with a 5-for-9 performance.

"He was in his usual good form," noted Trapp of Rennhack. "I thought he might tire but he said he felt good. And, of course, our defense was strong again. I think we had only two errors in the three games."

"Actually I thought about saving Rennhack for Monday night's game against Benton Harbor but I figured we might as well win the tournament after going this far."

Lakeshore scored two in the second on a RBI single by Kevin Middleton and when Barry Adams scooted home from third while Dale Burwell was caught in a run-down between first and second. The winners added one in the fourth on a double by Adams and two wild pitches. Lakeshore sealed the verdict in the seventh on a two-run single by Rennhack and a RBI single by Jim Rabbers. Randy Allen, the first of three LaPorte fingers, took the loss.

Adams is hitting around the .400 mark for Lakeshore while Jim Welch is at .346.

Lakeshore, which plays Benton Harbor in a Blue-Gray a RBI single and then Welch walked with the bases loaded. Tim Farrow collected a single and double for Lakeshore.

St. Joe, which scored its lone run on two errors, got a lead-off double from Jay Ciaravino in the last inning but he was tossed out when he overran second base.

Farrow took the mound with a three-hitter which included four fans and no walks. Kit Karsten took the loss with Don Mann brilliant in relief with no hits and eight whiffs over four and one-third innings.

Rennhack went 3-for-3 while Adams and Dale Burwell contributed two hits in Lakeshore's 11-hit win over St. Joe Mack. Wiles registered the hit win, Jeff Buller the setback.

Bicanich stroked two singles for St. Joe.

Mann fanned all six batters he faced in relief as St. Joseph Legion nipped Benton Harbor 3-2 on Saturday. Roger Vogie had a banner day with 4-for-4 with his last single knocking in the winning run in the seventh. Rick Dyer added two hits. Gary Meek was the loser.

Jackson, the pre-tourney favorite, edged Battle Creek 1-0 Saturday in a 12-inning pitcher's marathon. The game featured 33 strikeouts and only six hits with Jackson's Steve Bennett breezing 21 batters and allowing only two hits in 11 and two-thirds innings. Ironett wasn't awarded the win as he was relieved in the 12th with two outs and Jackson went on to score a run in the bottom of the 12th.

Pohl Defeats Three-Time Champ For State Am Title

CHARLEVOIX, Mich. (AP) — The weather was beautiful, the golf course superb, the gallery large and the stakes — although no money was involved — were high.

Most importantly, the final matchup of the 64th Michigan Amateur Golf Championship was ideal.

It provided a classic confrontation: the crafty, middle-aged veteran, a former champion, versus the long-hitting, "flat-belly" collegian.

There was excitement, drama, pathos, joy.

Today, Melvin "Bud" Stevens of Livonia is probably still torturing himself by recalling his mistakes.

Dan Pohl has probably forgotten his.

Pohl, 20-year-old former prep baseball All-Stater from Mount Pleasant, defeated the 42-year-old Stevens 1-up in 20 holes Saturday to capture the championship at the Belvedere Golf Club.

Pohl had been in every State Am since he was 16 and qualified for match play each time. Last year he lost in the semifinals 3 and 2 to eventual champion Rod Sumpter.

This time Pohl wasn't to be denied. And the boisterous group of his supporters let it be known who they were rooting for, groaning whenever Stevens made a great shot and screaming when Pohl made one.

Stevens — winner in 1959, 1963 and 1965 plus runnerup in 1962 — was as gracious in defeat as Pohl was in victory.

"It was the same when I was coming up," Stevens said of the anti-Stevens enthusiasm. "The young guys rooted against the older guys."

How disappointed was he being a runnerup again?

"I gotta be happy just getting there," the tool and die shop owner said.

The match ended on the second playoff hole when Stevens missed about a two-foot putt for a bogey five.

"Bud is a super player and I just feel happy to be able to beat him," said Pohl, who will be a junior next fall at the University of Arizona where he is the No. 1 man on the golf team. He shrugged off a possible future in baseball as a pitcher to attend Arizona on a golf scholarship.

Arizona didn't qualify for the National Collegiate Athletic Association championships. Pohl felt slighted at not being one of the individuals selected by an NCAA committee to play in the meet — held in Columbus, Ohio, at the same time as the Michigan Amateur.

But, "This is a super tourney," he said. "I'm glad I passed up the NCAA."

He might not have thought that way had Stevens missed that putt. It was a disappointing way to lose after battling back.

Stevens — who plays out of Washtenaw Country Club in Ypsilanti — was 2-up after four holes before Pohl came back to go even at the turn. Pohl won the 10th hole with a birdie and remained 1-up until the 16th where Stevens sank a 30-foot chip for a bird.

"I said to Bud on the green, 'I hope I can do the same thing to you on the next hole,'" Pohl said. He wasn't serious, though.

However, on the 17th Pohl sank a 35-foot chip to go 1-up again.

Stevens, who had 10 one-putt greens in the quarterfinals and nine in the semifinals, missed a 12-foot birdie putt which would have evened the match at 18. But it went even anyway — when Pohl missed a four-footer and wound up with a bogey.

"I can't say I choked there," Pohl insisted.

Pohl had reached the finals by eliminating Al Dimavicius 7 and 6 in the morning. Dimavicius was trying to become the first Grand Rapids golfer to reach the finals in 29 years.

Pohl's 36-hole qualifying score was 145. His match play victims up to the semis of the five-day tourney were David St. Aubin of Paw Paw, Jim Lipe of Ann Arbor, Bob Proben of Detroit and Jon Lovegrove of Flint.

Stevens semifinal triumph was 2 and 1 over affable Jim Turner of St. Clair Shores. Stevens was one of 13 golfers at 151 who had to play off for the last 12 spots.

His match play victims up to Saturday were John French of Lathrup Village, John Havins of Troy, Guy Billings of East Lansing and Ken Allard of Ann Arbor.

Jeff Reaume of Ypsilanti, tourney medalist with a 141, lost his opening match against East Lansing's Tom Mase, while 1974 runnerup Keith Mohan lost to Allard in the third round.

Sumpter turned pro and could not defend his title.

Third Gold For Kimball In Diving

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP) — A Michigan youth won his third gold medal Sunday and a California girl won her second gold medal in the second day of the National AAU Age Group Diving Championships.

Bruce Kimball, Ann Arbor, Mich., captured the title in the 3-meter for boys aged 11-12. He had won two other events in Saturday's competition.

Vicki Kimball, Bruce's sister, won the tower diving event for girls age 14 and under.

Wanda Boda, Davis, Calif., won the 1-meter for girls aged 13-14. She had won one event in Saturday's competition.

In other results Sunday:

Dana Lindsey, Arlington, Tex., won the 1-meter for girls 10 and under.

Jonathan Bingham, New York City, won the 3-meter event for boys 10 and under.

Patricia Bryant, Birmingham, Ala., captured the 1-meter for girls aged 11-12.

Mike Brown, Grosse Pointe, Mich., captured the 3-meter title for boys aged 13-14.

Rookie Shatters Records In Gar Wood Boat Race

DETROIT (AP) — Rookie driver Tom D'Eath throttled the flame-red Miss U.S. to lap, heat and race records Sunday as he swept all three 15-mile heats to win the $30,000 Gar Wood Trophy Race for unlimited hydroplanes on the Detroit River.

D'Eath, a 31-year-old marina operator from Fair Haven, Mich., blazed around the choppy, three-mile course at a record 123.287 miles-an-hour on his first lap and was never headed.

He won his first 15-mile heat at a record 117.929, took his second at 116.179 and then took the finale in a course record-setting 121.321. His 118.476 average for the 45 miles was a race record.

Mickey Remond of Palm Desert, Calif., was second in Miss Budweiser, finishing 10 boat lengths back in the final heat. The D'Eath-Remond side-by-side dual at speeds up to 170 miles-an-hour had the police-estimated crowd of 400,000 on its feet for the whole race.

George Henley of Seattle was third in Miss Pay'N Pak, Milner Irvin of Coral Gables, Fla., was fourth in Lincoln Thrift and Jerry Bangs of Seattle was fifth in the community-sponsored Miss Madison.

Pre-race favorite Weisfield's, which Bill Schumacher drove to a course record 127.810 in qualifying, was not in contention. It dropped out of its first heat with a broken gear box and fell behind in its second heat with a piston failure.

The race was the first one that D'Eath in Miss U.S. was able to finish in four tries this season. The boat had been rebuilt after burning to the water line in the Gold Cup Race at Seattle last season.

Five-time Gold Cup and national champion Bill Muncy of San Diego had the closest call of the day. The steering wheel of his Atlas Van Lines, came off in his hands as he roared to the start of his second heat.

The boat took a hard right and 'shot out of control up a canal between a line of spectator boats.'

Muncy said, "It scared the hell out of me."

Hot Carner Beats Mann In Playoff

TORONTO (AP) — Joanne Carner, the U.S. Ladies Professional Golf Association Player of the Year in 1974, is once again the hottest star on the tour.

Winner of six tournaments and $87,094 last year, she has come on strong in the last six weeks to win three more — two of them in playoffs — to move to within striking distance of money-earners' leader Sandra Palmer.

The 36-year-old Mrs. Carner, a five-times winner of the U.S. Amateur before turning professional in 1970, relied on her brilliant putting Sunday to defeat Carol Mann on the second extra hole in the $60,000 LPGA tournament at St. George's Golf and Country Club.

One stroke off the pace after the second round of the 54-hole tournament, Mrs. Carner fired a one-under-par 72 on the final 18 to finish tied at 214, five under par, with Miss Mann, the 34-year-old LPGA president now living in Towson, Md.

Mrs. Carner, of Lake Worth, Fla., had rounds of 73-69-72 while Miss Mann was up and down at 69-76-69, firing five birdies in her last round to charge from behind after losing one stroke to par on the par-4 375-yard fourth hole, her only bogey of the day.

The $12,000 Mrs. Carner won here brought her earnings for 1975 to $46,518 less than $9,000 behind the leader, Sandra Palmer, with $55,279.

Miss Palmer was one of four players tied for 22nd place here, picking up $567.

Miss Mann earned $6,500 for second place here and is third in the rankings with $36,526.

Tied for third were Sandra Haynie and Shirley Englehorn, each with 215 for $3,800. Miss Haynie added a 74 to earlier rounds of 71 and 70 while Miss Englehorn had a 70 to go with a first-round 71 and a second-round 74.

Connors, Evert Face First Tough Foes

Wimbledon 'Magic' Still Working

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Wimbledon, the tennis tournament the players call the world's best, is producing its own brand of magic once again.

Fans have been sleeping outside the gates of the All England Club in this tree-lined southwest London suburb as record crowds engulf the tournament which ranks high on the list of the world's most popular international sports events.

broadcasters and photographers from 40 countries vie for the time of the game's biggest stars.

"The crowds are fantastic. I haven't seen anything like it," said a gate official as the first week's attendance hit the 190,000 mark with last year's two-week record of 306,161 expected to be broken.

Ticket scalpers outside the gates were asking about $50 for $7 center court seats, officially sold by ballot months ago.

Americans, Italians, French, Spaniards, and Scandinavians were among those waving fistfuls of five-pound notes in hopes of buying tickets to watch the day's play.

As the men's and women's quarter-final round gets underway today, defending champions Jimmy Connors and Chris Evert face their first tough competition after a one-day hiatus on Sunday.

Connors, 22, has looked invincible in his four matches thus far, and Miss Evert has hardly ruffled her feathers against four opponents.

But with the All England Club's grass courts playing unpredictably, upsets may be in store. Connors meets the elegant Mexican Raul Ramirez, while the other men's quarter-finals pit Argentina's Guillermo Vilas against powerful Roscoe Tanner of Lookout Mountain, Tenn., Arthur Ashe against Sweden's Bjorn Borg, and Tom Okker of The Netherlands against Tony Roche of Australia.

Miss Evert plays unseeded Betty Stove of The Netherlands, while Billie Jean King meets Olga Morozova of the Soviet Union. The other quarter-finals will be between Britain's Virginia Wade and Evonne Goolagong-Cawley of Australia, and Martina Navratilova of Czechoslovakia versus Australia's Margaret Court.

North Lincoln's Comeback Continues, Fairplain Falls

North Lincoln won its third out of its last four games yesterday by downing Fairplain 6-4 in Southwest Connie Mack league action.

In other action Sunday, Watervliet took two from South Haven by 1-0 and 5-4 scores. And on Saturday, Fairplain beat Hagar 10-0.

North Lincoln, now 3-4, gave Mickey Ott a big cushion to work with as it scored all its runs in the first and third innings. Dan Streick tripled and Mike Priebe singled him in with the initial run in the first.

Ott helped his own cause in the third with a double that drove in two of North Lincoln's five runs. Tom Flood's suicide squeeze in Ott, then after two walks, Steve Ross singled in the other two runs.

Losing pitcher Jon Hermann walked and Bart Budtke singled to open Fairplain's second inning. Bubba Pate then smacked a double to drive both of them home.

In the fifth inning, Fairplain's Jack Reinhart walked and John Kirkwood singled and both moved up on an error. Gary Bartalone singled in Reinhart and Kirkwood scored when he evaded a rundown between third and home.

Streick had a single, double and triple for North Lincoln, driving in one run and scoring two. Ott and Priebe also had two hits for North Lincoln. Fairplain's Kirkwood had two singles. After this weekend's play, Fairplain is now 2-2.

In its first game against South Haven, Watervliet's Frank Gargano held his opponents to two singles. But Terry Marr was also doing the job for South Haven as he only gave up three hits, but one of those was a triple in the seventh by Ben Banasik that was his doom.

Banasik came home when Mark Bolin bunted back to the pitcher who threw to first while Banasik broke for home.

South Haven took a 1-0 lead in the second game when Jim Kasishke came home in the first inning on an error by the second baseman. It was a short-lived lead as Watervliet's Dave Whitaker drove in two runs in the third with a single to give them a 2-1 lead.

Perry Palanca started off a three-run fifth inning for South Haven with a triple and scored on an error. After two men had reached base, Jim Brown came through with a two-run single that gave South Haven a 4-2 lead.

Watervliet tied up the contest in the bottom of the fifth when Dick Young singled and came home on an error and Rich Sawyer was sacrificed home by George Keller.

Watervliet is now 4-6 while South Haven drops to 1-6.

On Saturday, Fairplain used all 15 players in its 10-0 rout of Hagar. Richard Maxwell struck out 10 and allowed just two hits. Mickey Ashbrook took the loss as Hagar dropped to 0-5.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Market Remains Listless

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today in a pattern similar to Friday's listless showing.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off a fraction, while gainers took a 43 lead over losers on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts noted little in the economic news since late last week to push the market strongly in either direction.

They said it appeared many investors were holding back to await the results of two developments today — the first sale of securities by New York's Municipal Assistance Corp., and the Treasury's second gold sale of the year.

Today's early prices included Chrysler, up 1/2 at 12; Sterling Drug, up 1/2 at 20 1/2; First Chicago, unchanged at 24; and International Telephone & Telegraph, up 1/2 at 23 1/2.

On Friday the Dow Jones industrial average ended a string of six consecutive gains with a 1.02 decline to 873.72.

Advances, however, outnumbered declines by about a 4-3 margin in turnover of 18.82 million shares on the NYSE.

The Big Board's composite index was unchanged at 509.62.

Ball Gets Contract From NASA

BOULDER, Colorado — NASA's Ames Research Center of Mountain View, Calif., has awarded a contract for $800,000 to the Aerospace Division of Ball Brothers Research Corporation for a second cloud-studying device to fly aboard the Pioneer to Venus in 1978.

The newest contract is for an infrared radiometer, designed to measure heating a cooling of the Venusian atmosphere at various levels, to measure carbon dioxide and water vapor and help determine where clouds are in the atmosphere of the distant planet.

Ball Brothers Research Corporation (BBRC) is a wholly owned subsidiary of Ball Corporation, Muncie, Ind. (Ball Corp. has a plant in St. Joseph, Mich.)

The Ames Research Center has recently announced a $1.25 million contract with the aerospace division of BBRC for a cloud particle size spectrometer. Both of the instruments will be aboard probes that descend to the surface of Venus, where the temperature is as high as 900 degrees Fahrenheit.

Both are being built by the BBRC Aerospace Division's science and applications organization.

The Aerospace Division's Time-Zero Laboratories in Gardena, Calif., are currently working on two other scientific instruments for the same mission. A star scanner for Pioneer is being built at the Boulder facilities, making a total of five projects currently underway by the Ball subsidiary for the 1978 probe to Venus, over 67 million miles from Earth.

The scientific purpose of the mission is to determine the nature and the composition of the clouds and the general circulation pattern of the Venus atmosphere.

The atmosphere and climate of Venus appear to be representative of a planet where nature has not been able to control the thermal process. It is important to determine why the planet maintains 900 degrees Fahrenheit surface temperatures. Clouds and the concentration of carbon dioxide and water vapor may play a dominant role in maintaining the surface temperatures, acting as an uncontrolled greenhouse mechanism.

Such mechanisms are also active in the Earth's atmosphere, and are being modified by man's activities. Knowledge of the mechanism at work in the Venusian atmosphere may provide clues as to the extent man can safely modify his own planet's climate by artificial means.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

Bond Commissions Hurt 'Little Guy'

By SAM SHULSKY

Q. I notice that you are devoting much attention to the high-yield bond market — and quite rightly so. However, I think the modest investor should pay attention to the costs of selling bonds if he has to regain his funds in two or three years. A round trip (purchase and sale) may add as much as 6 points ($60 per $1,000 bond) under the new scale of commissions. It seems a pity that the public is still at a disadvantage in the bond market when compared with the institutions who have the clout. One would think that corporations with money-raising problems would want to encourage, rather than discourage public participation in their bond issues.

A. This retired Wall Streeter's warning, of course, is 100 per cent correct and timely. The income-seeking investor has turned more and more to bonds in recent years as the stock market went into a slump and as interest rates rose.

I have tried to caution, time and again, that as far as the modest investor is concerned, bonds are not for trading! Not only have commissions risen (I hear reports of as much as $30 commission for the purchase of a single $1,000 bond). Even more costly can be the wide spread in bid and asked when one tries to buy (or sell) a few bonds.

And so I repeat: If you buy a bond for income purpose be prepared to sit with it "from now on..." As to the small investor being at a disadvantage in the bond market:

True, but this is no different from the plight of anyone who has to buy at "retail" an item which is generally considered a "wholesale" item.

I don't know that corporations raising money are much interested in who lends the money. The bondholder does not have a vote, so it is of little concern that bonds are not scattered around among the public, rather than concentrated in the hands of large institutions. If borrowing corporations are interested in wide distribution of debt, I haven't heard about it.

WIFE OLD LADY
Q. I am a woman of 70, retired with a small home worth about $22,000. I decided to keep the mortgage, $13,000, for income tax purposes; also, because I was able to assume the former owner's 5 1/2 per cent mortgage. I'm interested in your views of the current market, as it affects my list.

A. A 5 1/2 per cent mortgage is cheap money, whether you can use the tax deduction (on interest paid) or not. As a matter of fact, since most of your holdings — bonds and good quality utility stocks — yield more than 5 1/2 per cent you are actually getting more in taxable income than you are deducting in mortgage interest. However, it all winds up as a plus for you.

All in all, I think you've done well and your comment that you've read the column for years and been guided by it I accept as a compliment. Thank you.

POOR INVESTMENT

Q. A widow owns an apartment building which gives her living quarters plus a net, roughly, of $3,000. The building is worth $125,000 to $150,000. Should she "stay put" or sell?

A. On a strict money basis (that is, putting aside any comfort she may derive from her own apartment in her own building) I can't see this as a very rewarding investment. In today's high grade bond market $125,000 can produce $11,250 income annually. I don't know her tax bracket, but even reducing this by 20 per cent would give her $9,000 net to live on.

I don't know what she would have to pay to enjoy similar living quarters, but that $9,000, net, is $6,000 more than she is getting now. If income taxes are a more important consideration than, of course, the depreciation tax shelter the apartment house affords is of greater importance. It seems to me she should figure this all out, dollar-wise, with the aid of a real estate expert or her banker or her tax accountant.

YOUR MONEY'S WORTH

'SIFTING FOR SAVINGS' IN FOOD

How much could you slash food bill merely by consistently choosing the least costly version of each item on your grocery list and downgrading quality, convenience and fancy labels?

While surely you realize you could achieve some savings, would you believe a slashing of your food bills by an average 40 to 45 per cent? Would you believe that, even in this era of the highest food prices ever, "trading down" still ranks among the most significant ways to reduce your food budgets? Or that in some items the trading-down need not involve more than a cheaper packaging form — and no sacrifice in quality or certainly in nutritional value?

Curious about whether the advantages of trading-down were still as spectacular as I found them a few years back, I assigned my young assistant, Cris, to the chore of pricing two typical market-baskets in three similar suburban markets — and then of calculating the precise differences in terms of dollars and percentages.

"I saved so much, it was unreal!" she reported to me when she had completed her assignment. "I had not realized what it cost to make 'quality' the paramount issue."

"The drawback is the amount of time spent in the job of 'sifting for savings.' But as I became accustomed to where and what the bargains were, I cut my shopping time too."

What Cris did was price foods from two carefully planned grocery lists — a large list of 70 items for the comprehensive needs of a family of four, a smaller list to supply one or two persons for an average week.

She obtained permission from the store managers in an independent store and members of two national chains to price all the items herself — the most expensive in a category, the least costly. Here is her short list of everyday items:

1 pound butter;
1 pound ground beef;
16 slices American cheese;
24 ounces peanut butter;
1 pound beef coffee;
2 10-ounce packages frozen vegetables;

1 pound can baked beans;
1 pound frankfurters;
7 ounces can tuna fish;
1 pound loaf white bread;
1 bar soap (to illustrate non-food items).

At the independent store, the expensive items came to $15 vs. $10.64 for the cheapest; at the food chain stores, the comparisons were $12.81 vs. $8.85 and $13.17 vs. $9.44. More specific details would be self-defeating because prices vary so widely from area to area.

By trading-down, you can indeed achieve enormous savings. On some items, your savings will be much more than 40 to 45 per cent; on others, they may average around 20 per cent.

In some instances, you must sacrifice quality to a degree — but quality may not especially matter in the meal involved, or there may be no difference at all in quality. Why not purchase a cheaper package of carrots if the vegetable is going into a stew? Or why not look for lower priced beans if you're planning to make chili?

Look for the cheaper box or bag in items where packaging is secondary — sugar, for instance.

POLICE ROUNDUP

Beaches Scene Of Theft Reports

Thieves hit the beaches over the weekend, stealing two wallets and a purse. Twin City police reported.

Mark Boettcher, 1190 Vineland road, St. Joseph township, told St. Joseph city police his wallet containing $66 and valuable papers was taken from under a blanket at Tiscornia beach Sunday evening.

Phillip Larsen, 2818 Willa drive, St. Joseph, reported to city police his wallet was taken from his car parked at Tiscornia park about the same time. It contained $17.

Angie Parish, 1508 Fruitwood drive, Lincoln township, told Benton Harbor police her purse with $45, credit cards, and her house keys, was taken from under a blanket at Jean Klock park Sunday about 4:30 p.m.

Four thefts were reported to Benton township police Sunday including one pulled off by an apparently hungry thief who stole several pounds of ribs and pork chops, a pie and a cake from the home of Rose Johnson, 385 Urbandale avenue.

Sam Drake, golf professional at Point O'Woods golf and country club, told police a full set of golf clubs, which were to have been awarded as a prize and valued at about $380, was taken sometime Saturday night.

Rodney Brant, 465 South Fair avenue, Benton Harbor, said a pair of tires with chrome rims, valued at about $300, was taken off his van parked on Territorial road sometime over the weekend.

Mrs. Wilmer Strode, 536 Campbell avenue, reported the theft of two motorbikes and a tricycle.

Berrien sheriff's deputies investigated three thefts that occurred over the weekend.

Peter Carney, Munster, Ind., said his cabin on Pipestone lake, Bainbridge township, was broken into and thieves took a 17-foot canoe, 12-gauge shotgun and liquor, all valued at about $340.

Jack Malsch, box 373, Lemon Creek road, Lake township, told deputies a 9.5 horsepower outboard motor and gas tank, valued at about $300, were taken from a boat parked in his yard.

Randall Vawter, route 2, Watervliet, said a citizen's hand radio, no value listed, was taken from his car parked behind a store on Main street in Watervliet.

A 18-year-old Benton Harbor girl was arrested Sunday by city police on a charge of felonious assault and turned over to the custody of her parents pending petitioning to juvenile court.

Police reports indicated she allegedly struck an unidentified girl, cutting her head. The girl was not seriously injured. The incident reportedly occurred on Territorial and Fifth streets about 5 a.m. Sunday.

Donald Blevins, 19, of 1014 Pipestone street, told Benton Harbor police he was robbed of his wallet at knifepoint early Sunday morning near his home.

Blevins said three men accosted him as he was walking home about 12:15 a.m. along railroad tracks at the rear of 1001 Pipestone. His wallet contained $24 in cash and other personal papers, he told police.

Police said Blevins was cut on the arms, but said he sought his own treatment.

Benton Harbor police late Saturday night investigated an apparent burglary attempt that failed when two motorists reported seeing a man inside Cross's car wash, East Main and McCord streets.

While police were being called, a man ran from the building, joined another man and both fled on foot, police were told. The building had been entered through a previously broken window, but nothing was reported stolen, police said.

St. Joseph police said two ornamental lights were broken and about 30 feet of shrubbery run over by an auto at Shetler's Cigo station, 321 Main street. Damage was estimated at $420. Police said a car apparently jumped the curb and then left the scene. The damage was reported at 7:50 a.m. Saturday.

Greg Duerr, 709 Broadway, Benton Harbor, told city police Saturday night a brick was hurled at his auto while he was driving on Broadway near Clay about 9 p.m. Police said the vinyl top was ripped and some paint was knocked from the body.

Foyt Goes All Out, Wins Rain-Flagged Pocono 500

Learned Not To Hang Back At Indy

LONG POND, Pa. (AP) — A.J. Foyt learned his lesson. The conservative approach gains him nothing.

"I hung back at Indianapolis, waiting to make my move, and what happens: the rain washes out the last 25 laps and I'm stuck in third," Foyt said after winning Sunday's rain-shortened 500-mile race at Pocono International Raceway.

Foyt didn't do any hanging back during the Pocono race, which was red-flagged after 425 miles, and the veteran Texan and his V8-powered Coyote declared the winner.

"I kept my eyes on the sky when I could," Foyt said. "I saw the rain cloud coming there at the end, so I turned up the power all the way to go for broke."

"We were gambling on the weather. I didn't want to get caught with my pants down like at Indianapolis."

Foyt stretched a slim lead over runner-up Wally Dallenbach into a 300-yard advantage before the skies opened on the record crowd of more than 100,000.

"Racing is a big gamble and a lot of luck," Foyt said. "You have to be in the right spot and have the luck like I did today."

Skies were kinder to Dallenbach on Sunday than they were for the Indianapolis 500 last month. Dallenbach was leading there comfortably, but his engine broke — only 10 minutes before the rain started.

"You never like to finish second, but it's a whole lot better than breaking," Dallenbach said.

The top two finishers were the only drivers on the same lap, with third-place Billy Vukovich and fourth place Roger McCluskey one circuit back on the 2½-mile tri-oval. Gary Bettenhausen was fifth, two laps back along with sixth-place Johnny Rutherford, the defending champion.

John Martin, Jimmy Caruthers, Bill Puterbaugh and

George Snider rounded out the top 10.

Foyt, who pocketed $84,000 of the estimated $100,000 purse, was hounded most of the race, which was delayed two hours in starting by rain and a wet track, by Gordon Johncock in a Wildcat identical to Dallenbach's.

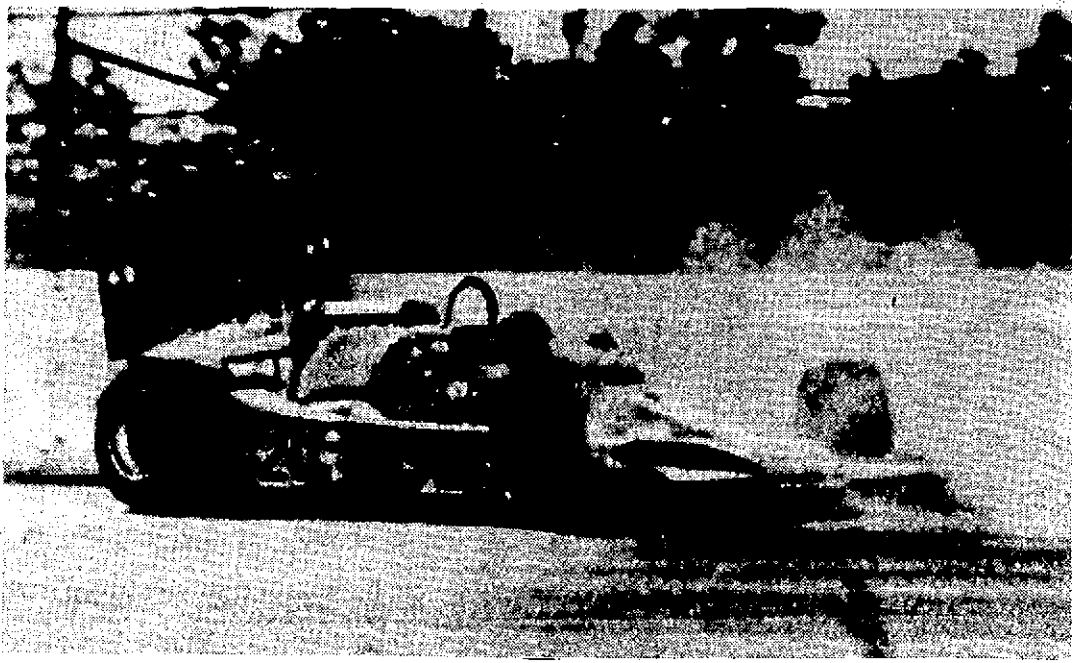

Johncock, who started first in the field of 33 cars, spun his machine in the second turn and rapped the wall sharply on lap 140 while running second. He was uninjured.

Johncock's problem while among the leaders was not uncommon.

Among the eight leaders in the race were Pancho Carter, who retired with a set of burned out valves; Mario Andretti, out with a burned piston; Steve Krisiloff, dropped valve, and Jerry Grant, delayed for more than 20 laps with a cooling housing that was replaced. Johnny Parsons conked out while in second place.

"We had some little problems too," Foyt said. "We kept changing tires all day long trying to get the right combination. Near the end we got it."

"But I was having handling troubles all day. I almost spun several times. I thought I was going to pull what Gordon did."

cock's racer hit the wall with the rear end of his car after spinning on the turn. He was not seriously injured. (AP Wirephoto)

Top prize: $500,000 cash plus $25,000 a year for 20 years.

The State of Michigan Lottery • Bicentennial Commemorative

PORT MACKINAC

SERIAL NUMBER 000000-0 DRAWING DATE 10/14/75 0000000 LOTTERY NUMBER

Lotteries have been part of the American scene since this country was founded nearly 200 years ago. The early colonies utilized lotteries to build roads, schools, hospitals and pay for the costs of government. Nothing in the last 200 years, however, compares with Michigan's new Bicentennial Commemorative Lottery. The $5 game. It is the biggest and richest Lottery in American history.

One Drawing: October 14

Tickets for the new Bicentennial game will be on sale for three months. Sales will end in late September, or as soon as the limited supply of tickets is exhausted. You need to buy only one ticket to get a chance at the fabulously rich prizes at stake in the Oct. 14 drawing. Bicentennial tickets are available at all regular lottery ticket sales outlets.

17 Winning Numbers

Each Bicentennial ticket contains a 7-digit lottery number that will determine whether you win and how much you win on Oct. 14. On this date, 17 or more winning 7-digit numbers will be drawn. If the lottery number on your ticket matches the last four or more digits of any of the winning numbers, you win. You have up to one year after the drawing to claim your prize. The procedure for winning is described in greater detail below.

Thousands of Prizes

The grand prize in the Oct. 14 drawing goes to the ticket holder matching all 7 digits of the 1st Prize Number exactly. That winner will receive $500,000 cash plus $25,000 a year for 20 years. Matching the last 6 digits of the 1st Prize Number wins $250,000 cash. The last five digits are worth $5,000 and the last four win $500. All prizes paid in cash. The prize structure is illustrated.

How to Win
